

Tax Cut Discord
May Mar Opening
Of Carter Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's first policy disagreement with key congressional Democrats is emerging over the possibility of a new tax cut.

Carter said last week that if the economy does not begin improving by January, there is a "strong possibility" that he would ask for a tax cut to stimulate it.

But Congress' chief taxwriter, House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, said Tuesday that Congress should approach any such proposal "with great caution."

"We would be deceiving the American people if they were led to believe they would be getting major tax deduction," Ullman said at a news conference in Colorado Springs, Colo.

In more detailed remarks released through his Washington office, the Oregon Democrat said it is too early to determine whether an additional tax cut on top of the $19 billion tax cut already approved by Congress would be appropriate.

"We should approach an additional tax cut with great caution and should evaluate carefully all of the alternatives," he said.

Economic Summit
Possible Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounting economic difficulties throughout the world may prompt President-elect Jimmy Carter to support an international economic summit conference soon after he takes office, one of his advisers says.

While Carter has not committed himself to such an economic summit, it would be "a logical kind of sequence for him to pursue," C. Fred Bersten, a Brookings Institution economist who advises the President-elect on international economic issues, said Tuesday.

President Ford attended economic summit conferences with Western nations and Japan in France in 1975 and again in Puerto Rico last June. There has been some talk of holding a third summit in Japan next year.

Ironically, the next summit conference could undo some of the work of the Puerto Rican conference, where the nations committed themselves to economic policies intended to promote gradual recovery from recession while avoiding the danger of a new outburst of inflation.

That same approach was endorsed as recently as last month at the annual meeting of the 129-nation International Monetary Fund in the Philippines.

But now there is growing concern that the major economies in the industrial world have slowed too much, and that problems of unemployment and low output are getting worse instead of better.

Smokey Bear Dies At 26

CAPITAN, N.M. (AP) — Smokey Bear, who received so much fan mail he was given his own zip code, has returned to the New Mexico mountain from which he was rescued 26 years ago during a raging forest fire.

Smokey, who became America's symbol of fire prevention after New Mexico game warden Elliott Barker found him clinging with burned paws to a charred tree, died of natural causes Tuesday at the National Zoo in Washington, D.C.

He was 26 years old, the equivalent of 70 in humans.

Smokey's remains were flown from Washington to Albuquerque on Tuesday night, then taken to Smokey Bear Historical State Park.

The park, still under construction, faces Capitan Mountain, the scene of the disastrous Capitan Gap Fire in 1950 that nearly claimed Smokey's life.

Lawmakers Increase
County Officials' Pay

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's lawmakers moved with speed Tuesday to provide pay raises for county officials and complete enactment of a bill expanding Ohio's charitable bingo law.

They also overrode a pair of vetoes by Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, elected leaders for the 1977-1978 session, and confirmed the last two of a procession of Rhodes' cabinet appointments the law makes subject to Senate approval.

The flurry of activity came at a one-day session called to tie together loose ends from a four-day September meeting of the Senate and House. They plan to return at least once more, on Dec. 14, to consider about five dozen more Rhodes' appointments to lesser state posts.

Under the county pay raise bill, which won final approval after long deliberations by two Senate-House conference committees, sheriffs, prosecutors, commissioners, coroners, recorders, treasurers, court clerks, engineers, and others will get salary boosts averaging overall more than 35 per cent. For most, it will be the first hike in eight years. Sponsors said inflation has boosted the cost of living over the past four years by a total of 44 per cent.

Stripped from the bill in conference committee was a House proposal to place on top the hikes in base pay additional, automatic increments of $750-$1,000 a year over the next four years. Instead, the conference committee upped the proposed increases in base salary by $1,000 a year for officials in smaller counties and $1,500 for those in larger counties. The cost of the measure thus is almost the same as it would have been with increments.

The bill reduces from 35 to 14 the number of population categories used to set pay scales for county officials.

'Fat Show' Being Used In Dieting

BOSTON (AP) — A psychologist says he's helping fat people lose weight by showing them subliminal images of slender people and insects crawling through calorie-filled treats.

"We are trying to make fat people think 'normal,' which they don't know how to do. They think 'fat,'" said Hal C. Becker, director of the clinical and behavioral engineering lab at Tulane University in New Orleans.

Becker said Tuesday that his patients attend 90-minute sessions each week, during which they watch videotaped messages on diet and nutrition. During the tapes, background images are flashed on the screen too quickly to be consciously noticed.

The images are of slim, handsome men and women in attractive surroundings, interspersed with others of insects and devils scampering over foods the dieter is supposed to avoid.

At the end of each dietary message, the background images become clearly visible, Becker told a convention of the Alliance for Engineering in Medicine and Biology.

Dieters also are videotaped from the neck down and as they lose or fail to lose weight are shown the tapes of themselves, he said.

This, Becker said, offers "significant reinforcement when they have done well and powerful aversive conditioning when they have done badly."

Becker conceded that some psychologists might disagree with the effectiveness of the subliminal techniques, but he said he was convinced they work.

Of 42 people who attended at least half of the sessions between September 1974 and March of this year, he said, 29 lost between 11 and 20 pounds, he said. In most cases, Becker added, they maintained the new weight or had lost still more six months later.

He said the program costs $180 to join.

San Quentin Escape Tunnel Discovered

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Prison guards found three men with a lot of time on their hands in a locked room full of dirt. They had dug a grand tunnel, the prison says, but it wasn't quite finished.

Ten feet under the grounds of the celebrated San Quentin Prison, guards found the 67-foot-long tunnel, three feet wide, with wood-braced sides, electric lights, a ventilation fan and a sophisticated communications system using speakers, wires and tubes from stolen radios and telephones.

"It was real Jimmy Cagney stuff," said prison spokesman Bill Merkle on Tuesday. "Maybe two more weeks and they would have made it."

Officials estimated the convicts had been at it for a month. The tunnel had already passed the wall of this grim structure on the edge of San Francisco Bay. It ended under a paved road, Merkle said, and was 30 to 35 feet short of the water's edge.

"It would have been easy," said Merkle. "If they had made it to the bay, they would have been beyond the security perimeters. All they would have had to do would be tip-toe around and they would have been gone."

But on Tuesday Lt. Jerry Copus, checking carefully because guards had heard rumors an escape attempt was afoot, grew suspicious of a locked steel door in the utility alley of North Cellblock, a five-tier building that houses Death Row and the gas chamber.

"I had the right key but it wouldn't work. We figured something was wrong," he said. When the prison locksmith could do no better, Copus called for a hacksaw.

Just then, Copus said, a voice was heard from the other side:

"Lt. Copus, this is inmate Lucas. There are three of us in here. We got no weapons and we don't want no trouble." A key was slipped out.

The three behind the door were identified as Norman Lucas, 26, serving a life term for kidnap; Richard Lee, 27, five years to life for assault with intent to commit murder, and Lawrence Saffels, 29, five years to life for armed robbery. All had made earlier escape attempts, Merkle said.

Tax Cut Discord May Mar Opening Of Carter Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's first policy disagreement with key congressional Democrats is emerging over the possibility of a new tax cut.

Carter said last week that if the economy does not begin improving by January, there is a "strong possibility" that he would ask for a tax cut to stimulate it.

But Congress' chief taxwriter, House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, said Tuesday that Congress should approach any such proposal "with great caution."

"We would be deceiving the American people if they were led to believe they would be getting major tax deduction," Ullman said at a news conference in Colorado Springs, Colo.

In more detailed remarks released through his Washington office, the Oregon Democrat said it is too early to determine whether an additional tax cut on top of the $19 billion tax cut already approved by Congress would be appropriate.

"We should approach an additional tax cut with great caution and should evaluate carefully all of the alternatives," he said.

Ullman said anti-recession job programs and incentives for investments in high unemployment areas "would be more effective in dealing with the problem."

Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., candidate for chairman of the House Budget Committee, said he believes neither Carter nor Congress would approve another tax cut unless the economy gets worse.

Carter said last Thursday that a tax cut "could be a strong possibility if there is no change in the rate of growth of the economy and if economic indicators should show a negative aspect."

But while putting dampers on Carter's talk of a new tax cut, both Ullman and Giaimo said they and other Democratic leaders and the President-elect will work out agreements on such issues.

Ullman said he expects to stay in close touch with Carter's aides and "I'm confident we'll be in full agreement on the issue in January."

He said in Colorado Springs that he has found Carter's staff people in talks so far to be "responsible people with their feet on the ground. I think we can develop some measures that are responsible and workable."

Economic Summit Possible Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounting economic difficulties throughout the world may prompt President-elect Jimmy Carter to support an international economic summit conference soon after he takes office, one of his advisers says.

While Carter has not committed himself to such an economic summit, it would be "a logical kind of sequence for him to pursue," C. Fred Bersten, a Brookings Institution economist who advises the President-elect on international economic issues, said Tuesday.

President Ford attended economic summit conferences with Western nations and Japan in France in 1975 and again in Puerto Rico last June. There has been some talk of holding a third summit in Japan next year.

Ironically, the next summit conference could undo some of the work of the Puerto Rican conference, where the nations committed themselves to economic policies intended to promote gradual recovery from recession while avoiding the danger of a new outburst of inflation.

That same approach was endorsed as recently as last month at the annual meeting of the 129-nation International Monetary Fund in the Philippines.

But now there is growing concern that the major economies in the industrial world have slowed too much, and that problems of unemployment and low output are getting worse instead of better.

An expected increase in world oil prices by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) in December also would add to world economic worries. An increase of 10 per cent would add $12 billion to the current world oil bill of $120 billion.

"The evidence is becoming increasingly persuasive that some kind of parallel expansionary measures are needed by those three big economies," Bergsten said in an interview.

Carter's top economic adviser, Lawrence R. Klein, appears to agree with some private economists that Japan's industrial production has declined for two quarters in a row and "in the whole Western world, the curve of industrial production is flat."

Other global economic issues facing Carter that could be taken up at an economic summit conference include:

—The special problems of Italy and Great Britain, which appear in need of outside financial help to avoid economic collapse. By the time Carter takes office, the IMF should already have acted on Britain's request for a $3.9 billion loan.

—A system for policing the current system of floating currency exchange rates. Inflation by some countries on behalf of their currencies is suspected as having kept some currency values artificially low to the detriment of other currencies.

—Problems that poor and underdeveloped nations are having in repaying their growing international debts, which now total about $170 billion. Carter is expected to be more willing than Ford to reschedule and postpone debt repayments.

—A system for policing the current

Officials estimated the convicts had been at it for a month. The tunnel had already passed the wall of this grim structure on the edge of San Francisco Bay. It ended under a paved road, Merkle said, and was 30 to 35 feet short of the water's edge.

"It would have been easy," said Merkle. "If they had made it to the bay, they would have been beyond the security perimeters. All they would have had to do would be tip-toe around and they would have been gone."

But on Tuesday Lt. Jerry Copus, checking carefully because guards had heard rumors an escape attempt was afoot, grew suspicious of a locked steel door in the utility alley of North Cellblock, a five-tier building that houses Death Row and the gas chamber.

"I had the right key but it wouldn't work. We figured something was wrong," he said. When the prison locksmith could do no better, Copus called for a hacksaw.

Just then, Copus said, a voice was heard from the other side:

"Lt. Copus, this is inmate Lucas. There are three of us in here. We got no weapons and we don't want no trouble." A key was slipped out.

The three behind the door were identified as Norman Lucas, 26, serving a life term for kidnap; Richard Lee, 27, five years to life for assault with intent to commit murder, and Lawrence Saffels, 29, five years to life for armed robbery. All had made earlier escape attempts, Merkle said.

TANK FIRE — Circleville Firemen battle a fire at the Van Camp Asphalt Company on Island Road Tuesday afternoon. The fire began when James Pritchard was welding fittings on the two, 9,000 gallon tanks of asphalt. Pritchard was unable to control the fire with a fire extinguisher. Three pieces of fire equipment from the Circleville Department were used, and members of the Circleville Emergency Medical Team were on hand. The incident was investigated by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Jim Fite.

Train-Bus Crash Kills 10 Persons

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — Ten people were killed and 20 injured today when a passenger train crashed into a bus on the outskirts of Zagreb, the capital of Croatia.

Diet Pills Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amphetamines should be totally banned because their dangers far outstrip their ability to promote weight loss, several doctors told a federal panel.

The drugs, known by nicknames like "speed," and "uppers," were prescribed 25 million times in 1975 for weight loss, the doctors told a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

Nelson has already let it be known that he favors banning the drugs.

"There is no question that there is far more harmfulness from the use of amphetamines than benefits," said Dr. Lester Grinspoon of the Harvard Medical School in testimony Tuesday.

Dr. James J. Nora said some potentially dangerous drugs like birth control pills filled a pressing social need and justified their use. There is no pressing need for amphetamines, he said.

Grinspoon said most studies showed that patients who take prescribed amphetamines generally show a quick initial weight loss. But he said that is usually the case with any weight loss program because the patient is enthusiastic and dedicated at the beginning.

Prolonged use of the drugs can result in psychosis, panic and confusion, the doctors said. Some inconclusive studies have linked amphetamines to birth defects.

Kaiser has been charged with the misdemeanor of reckless endangerment. Witnesses said he was holding a .357 magnum revolver which discharged July 31 as young Nelson was leaving the cafe. Nelson was wounded in the upper thigh.

Westfall To Get School Bus Money

State Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker (D-89th District) reported that the State Controlling Board today released $13,458 to the Westfall Local School District, Pickaway County, to assist in the purchase of two new school buses.

Total cost of the two 66-passenger buses is $27,814. Local funds provide the balance, according to Shoemaker.

Seminars Slated On Gas Stations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Fire Marshal Terry E. Drake said Tuesday his office will begin conducting seminars throughout the state on the operation of self-serve gasoline stations, which become legal in Ohio on Jan. 1.

Drake said the first seminar will be held in Findlay on Wednesday.

He said the conferences are intended to educate fire departments and the petroleum industry on new laws and regulations concerning the stations.

Parents Sorry For Death Driver

CELINA, Ohio (AP) — "We had nothing to gain because all our kids are dead," Irene Sommer said. "The poor guy has to live with it for the rest of his life."

Mrs. Sommer was responding to the punishment handed down Tuesday to John Kremer, driver of a car that plowed into a group of teen-agers last spring, killing eight of them. Her son, Kenneth, was one of the victims.

Kremer, a 21-year-old meat cutter, was spared a prison term by a judge who felt he created his own jail. He had pleaded no contest to one count of vehicular homicide during a half-hour trial in Celina Municipal Court.

Judge James W. Myers suspended his license for one year and fined him $300 for court costs. He'll be able to drive to and from work after 30 days. "We are not after your blood," said Judge Myers. "We represent society and there has to be some penalty."

"I don't think anything can be gained from time in jail. You have created your own jail, one you will have to live with the rest of your life. I think that is an adequate penalty."

Mrs. Sommer said she agreed with the judge. "I felt sorry for the boy—that he had to be the victim of something like that," she said. "He made one mistake and he's paid dearly for it."

Alice Moorman, whose daughter, Becky, also died in the accident last March, shared Mrs. Sommer's compassion for Kremer.

"I think John's gone through enough," she said. "I'm just glad it's over."

Kremer was charged with eight counts of vehicular homicide, one count of failure to obey a stop sign and failure to stop at an assured clear distance ahead. He had pleaded innocent to the charges.

Maximum penalty for the vehicular homicide charge—a first degree misdemeanor—was a jail term of six months and fine of up to $1,000 or both.

At the trial Tuesday, the judge dismissed seven of the eight counts of vehicular homicide and later the two charges of failing to stop were also eliminated. Kremer then pleaded no contest.

"I have said you are guilty beyond a reasonable doubt of vehicular homicide because of negligence," he told Kremer.

Kremer was convicted of driving the automobile that hit the eight teenagers who were standing by the road at the intersection of Rolfe and Fort Recovery-Minster Roads on March 7. They had gotten out of their automobiles, part of a nine-car caravan, to decide where they would head next in their celebration of a basketball victory.

The Highway Patrol said Kremer's car came over a hill from the opposite direction the students at Minster High School were headed, and went through the intersection.

"There's no question left that Kremer failed to stop at the stop sign and failed to maintain clear distance," Judge Myers said.

"Very particularly I feel that the cars on the east side of the road and these teen-agers should not have been there. Nevertheless, he did do something he should not have done."

"Even though there are eight involved in the tragedy, there is only one act of negligence committed by the defendant," Judge Myers said.

A Page Of Opinion

Looking Ahead

Chronologically, 1980 is too distant to be thought about seriously in light of the 1976 election returns. Yet, political ambition being the force it is, undoubtedly there are those in public life who have begun to glance in that direction.

If tradition still counts, Jimmy Carter for at least the first two years of his term should have his party's nomination secured for 1980.

Big John had a streak of jealousy. His Jenny was sometimes vain. The two did not always match up. He was striding two paces ahead of her when a man lifted his hat and said to my mother, "How do." My old man stopped, turned and growled, "Do you know that man?"

My mother shook her head no. Big John grabbed the stranger by the tie and dropped him to the sidewalk with a hard right. As they walked away, he said, "Jenny, are you sure you don't know that slob?" She was confused. She looked back and nodded yes. He was the beautician who gave her a permanent wave.

Momma cried. She said Big John was crude and certainly beneath her station in life. My old man shouted that a beautician has no right to say hello to a lady. "And by the way," he said, pointing a finger, "find a new beauty shop. I don't like his manners."

She loved to preen when he was taking her out. She used face powder and a smidge of cheek rouge. No lipstick. She admired her own feet - size five. She liked her long wavy bronze hair and her straight nose. She made most of her own dresses on an old sewing machine.

All their married life, he gave her $2 a week "pin money." They attended mass together and the sacraments. One Saturday they occupied opposite sides of a confessional. My old man growled his sins. Jenny heard. When they got outside, she hit him with her handbag.

Big John's idea of a Sunday was to take momma for a drive. He was always fearful of an accident. He would point to a car coming out of a sidestreet two blocks ahead. "You saw that, Jenny. Why didn't you warn me?"

There was silence in the car. A half-mile later, she would murmur, "John, there's a car coming out." "I see it," he would roar. "Do you think I'm blind?"

Sometimes they stopped at Lundy's in Long Island for a shore dinner. Jenny would have a lobster. Big John would start with two dozen steamed, a broiled chicken, salad, lobster a la king and peach melba.

They were getting old. He was 68. She was 67. Out of the corner of his steamers he saw a young family three tables away. Big John watched. Then, without a word, he went over to the table, grabbed the young father by the lapels and shook him.

"If I catch you looking at my wife like that again, Sonny," he said, "you'll walk out of here with a pair of broken legs." My mother heard it. She looked at the ceiling and said, "God forgive him!" and tottered out.

She said she wouldn't live to see her golden wedding anniversary. He said she would. He'd make her live. "John," she said, "you're impossible. You have nothing to do with it. When God calls me, I'll go." She looked him over from head to toe. "Gladly."

They made it. The Bishops had a nice apartment in Fort Lee, N.J. The children were there. So were the grandchildren. And the great-grandchildren. There was a lot of noise and commotion.

My old man was in his uniform - deep blue suit, gleaming black shoes, white shirt, Harvard striped tie. He watched a ball game and chewed on a cigar. The granddaughters dressed my mother in a lavender slip under a lavender lace dress.

She was blind. Jenny held court, recognizing people by their voices. We were allowed to kiss her on the cheek. She had little downy hairs on her chin. She sat too straight. After dinner, she said, "I must excuse myself. I'm a little tired."

As the oldest, I tried to help her. "No," she said, pulling away, "let my boy friend do it." The cigar came out

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There are two sets of government figures on the weekly earnings of a "typical" household head with three dependents.

Earlier this year the figure in one was $245, in the other, $174. The difference was 41 per cent.

Both are official figures. Both are from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. While the discrepancy has remained unresolved for years, it isn't overlooked; footnotes dutifully call attention to it.

For critics who have become increasingly disturbed about the nation's reliance on economic statistics of questionable verity, the situation is a prime exhibit, an illustration of the dangers in decisions based on numbers.

"I have observed that few people outside BLS are even aware that anything is seriously misleading about the numbers," writes Geoffrey H. Moore, director of business cycle research at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

The smaller figure, an estimate issued each month, tends to be used more than the larger figure, obtained by survey and released once a year. The smaller number is incorrect, a gross understating, says Moore. "It just is not so."

Moore knows. He was commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics until 1975, which in itself is a commentary on the pertinaciousness of numbers known to be misleading, and therefore dangerous to the decision-making process.

"I should have done more about it at that time," said Moore in an interview. But series of numbers, once begun, have a tendency to persist even when wrong, he explained.

"Concerned about statements that real earnings have gone nowhere since 1965," Moore recently wrote an article on the subject for The Morgan Guaranty Survey, a monthly examination of the economy published by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.

"Why the difference?" he asks in the article. He answers: "The main reason is that the monthly series is based on an assumption — and that assumption happens to be wrong."

Numbers, no matter how neat they appear to be, are only as good as the assumption underlying them.

The assumption on which the lower earnings number is based is that the average worker who supports a family of four has the same weekly earnings as the average of all workers.

"But the average of all workers includes many who work only part of a week," Moore points out. And it also includes many young, single persons who have not yet attained their full earnings capacity.

"Hence it seriously understates the average earnings of a worker who supports a family of four," says Moore. And the distortion may be getting worse, because the percentage of part-time earners has been increasing.

Ironically, says Moore, "Many of these part-time earners are helping to increase family income, yet because they are averaged in with the rest, they actually reduce the figures used in monthly estimates."

Without getting into the mathematical details, it can be said that the distortion is even greater because the annual survey figure, the larger one, is a median, while the monthly estimate is based on an arithmetic mean.

"The median of an income distribution, as Mr. Jimmy Carter recently learned after his remark about taxes, is usually substantially lower than the mean," Moore comments.

But what does all this add up to? To bad decisions, of course. If the numbers aren't real, if they are nothing but symbols adrift, how can we deal with the realities — which too often today include inflation? This is how Moore expresses it:

"By issuing, 12 times a year, figures that substantially understate the level and the trend of real earnings of the typical family head, the government itself creates an instrument of inflation — for it fosters and appears to justify pay demands that exceed the limitations imposed by increases in productivity."

Why does this substitution of numbers for analysis continue? "It started years and years ago and probably at that time there wasn't anything better and it looked like a pretty good series," said Moore in the interview, adding:

"There is a tendency for all statistics to persist because of the vested interest of those compiling and using them. They want to see what the figures show each month."

"Like fortune tellers," said a long-suffering economist here.

Public disgust with the brutality of public whippings and the establishment of more substantial county jails and a state penitentiary prompted Ohio to abandon corporal punishment from penalties included in a revised criminal code of 1824. — AP

In 1965, New York and the U.S. Northeast struggled back toward normal after a huge power failure that became known as the Great Blackout of 1965.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson said gains that the Republicans had made in the 1966 off-year elections would make it more difficult to enact new legislation in Congress.

He was a representative of the Russian Bible Society and engaged in a campaign to get Bibles into Russia and to help the churches there.

City voters were asked to consider election of a 15-member commission to study a change in the city charter for a plan of government. Members of the proposed commission were: Robert E. Adkins, Robert L. Brehmer, Wilson R. Clark, Lee H. Cook, Emmitt L. Crist, Ben H. Gordon, Harry E. Graef, Dorothy E. Jones, E. L. Montgomery, Richard W. Penn, Kenneth Robbins, Richard Simkins, Annette G. Will and George D. Young. Voters okayed the idea at the polls giving the 15-member commission permission to study the needs of the city, propose improvements and make recommendations subject to the approval of voters in a future election. The idea was to up the city's charter to meet present demands.

Voters in Williamsport crowded the polls with 90 per cent of those eligible casting a vote. William B. Johnson was elected mayor.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I'm 13 and I would like to have surgery on my nose to make it smaller. My parents say that I must wait until I'm 16. I'd like your opinion if it's necessary to wait until then. I know that your recommendation would help me present a good argument to my parents.

Miss P. N., N.Y.

Dear Miss N.:

I'm certain that it was with the help of a plastic surgeon that your parents arrived at the decision for you to wait until you're 16 before surgery.

I think that this is a proper conclusion. At 13, the entire bone structure of the nose and face has not yet reached complete maturity. After this time, it's a fair assumption that the end result of the plastic surgery would be more satisfying to you.

I do appreciate the fact that you're impatient to have this done. Your parents seem to be most understanding and are not deliberately trying to dissuade you from surgery. Rather, they are hoping to find the ideal time for the ideal result.

What causes Meniere's disease? What can be done to help the dizziness? Ms. V. T. H., B.C., Canada

Dear Ms. H.:

Meniere's disease is a very complicated disorder. Three symptoms are associated with this. One, sudden severe episodes of dizziness. Two, progressive hearing loss over a long period of time. Three, persistent noises in the head (tinnitus).

New GI Benefit Bill Has Strings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Future veterans of America's armed forces are going to have to give a little if they want Uncle Sam to help put them through college or graduate school when they return to civilian life.

The men and women who enlist after Dec. 31 will not be entitled automatically to the lucrative education benefits that current members of the military and all veterans in recent years have shared.

But the Pentagon and the Veterans Administration are gearing up for an experimental new education program that will provide benefits for servicemen and women who are willing to put aside at least $50 a month for their own educational fund.

The experiment is a compromise written into the new GI bill that Congress passed in September. It will be reviewed in years.

Under the new program, those who join the military after Dec. 31 can gain the new educational benefits by contributing from $50 to $75 a month to the VA, up to a limit of $2,700 over the individual's military career. The government will match the contributions with $2 for each $1 invested.

A person may quit the program at the end of any 12-month period. Those who quit get their money back but in most cases they lose their rights to the government benefits.

The benefits may be used after release from active duty, provided that the person is not dishonorably discharged.

Under the system being phased out, veterans are paid up to $292 a month in educational benefits for from 36 to 45 months if they meet certain re-

A Page Of Opinion

Looking Ahead

Chronologically, 1980 is too distant to be thought about seriously in light of the 1976 election returns. Yet, political ambition being the force it is, undoubtedly there are those in public life who have begun to glance in that direction.

If tradition still counts, Jimmy Carter for at least the first two years of his term should have his party's nomination secured for 1980.

Big John had a streak of jealousy. His Jenny was sometimes vain. The two did not always match up. He was striding two paces ahead of her when a man lifted his hat and said to my mother, "How do." My old man stopped, turned and growled, "Do you know that man?"

My mother shook her head no. Big John grabbed the stranger by the tie and dropped him to the sidewalk with a hard right. As they walked away, he said, "Jenny, are you sure you don't know that slob?" She was confused. She looked back and nodded yes. He was the beautician who gave her a permanent wave.

Momma cried. She said Big John was crude and certainly beneath her station in life. My old man shouted that a beautician has no right to say hello to a lady. "And by the way," he said, pointing a finger, "find a new beauty shop. I don't like his manners."

She loved to preen when he was taking her out. She used face powder and a smidge of cheek rouge. No lipstick. She admired her own feet - size five. She liked her long wavy bronze hair and her straight nose. She made most of her own dresses on an old sewing machine.

All their married life, he gave her $2 a week "pin money." They attended mass together and the sacraments. One Saturday they occupied opposite sides of a confessional. My old man growled his sins. Jenny heard. When they got outside, she hit him with her handbag.

Big John's idea of a Sunday was to take momma for a drive. He was always fearful of an accident. He would point to a car coming out of a sidestreet two blocks ahead. "You saw that, Jenny. Why didn't you warn me?"

There was silence in the car. A half-mile later, she would murmur, "John, there's a car coming out..." "I see it," he would roar. "Do you think I'm blind?"

Sometimes they stopped at Lundy's in Long Island for a shore dinner. Jenny would have a lobster. Big John would start with two dozen steamed, a broiled chicken, salad, lobster a la king and peach melba.

They were getting old. He was 68. She was 67. Out of the corner of his steamers he saw a young family three tables away. Big John watched. Then, without a word, he went over to the table, grabbed the young father by the lapels and shook him.

"If I catch you looking at my wife like that again, Sonny," he said, "you'll walk out of here with a pair of broken legs." My mother heard it. She looked at the ceiling and said, "God forgive him!" and tottered out.

She said she wouldn't live to see her golden wedding anniversary. He said she would. He'd make her live. "John," she said, "you're impossible. You have nothing to do with it. When God calls me, I'll go." She looked him over from head to toe. "Gladly."

They made it. The Bishops had a nice apartment in Fort Lee, N.J. The children were there. So were the grandchildren. And the great-grandchildren. There was a lot of noise and commotion.

My old man was in his uniform - deep blue suit, gleaming black shoes, white shirt, Harvard striped tie. He watched a ball game and chewed on a cigar. The granddaughters dressed my mother in a lavender slip under a lavender lace dress.

She was blind. Jenny held court, recognizing people by their voices. We were allowed to kiss her on the cheek. She had little downy hairs on her chin. She sat too straight. After dinner, she said, "I must excuse myself. I'm a little tired."

As the oldest, I tried to help her. "No," she said, pulling away, "let my boy friend do it." The cigar came out

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There are two sets of government figures on the weekly earnings of a "typical" household head with three dependents.

Earlier this year the figure in one was $245, in the other, $174. The difference was 41 per cent.

Both are official figures. Both are from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. While the discrepancy has remained unresolved for years, it isn't overlooked; footnotes dutifully call attention to it.

For critics who have become increasingly disturbed about the nation's reliance on economic statistics of questionable verity, the situation is a prime exhibit, an illustration of the dangers in decisions based on numbers.

"I have observed that few people outside BLS are even aware that anything is seriously misleading about the numbers," writes Geoffrey H. Moore, director of business cycle research at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

The smaller figure, an estimate issued each month, tends to be used more than the larger figure, obtained by survey and released once a year. The smaller number is incorrect, a gross understating, says Moore. "It just is not so."

Moore knows. He was commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics until 1975, which in itself is a commentary on the pertinaciousness of numbers known to be misleading, and therefore dangerous to the decision-making process.

"I should have done more about it at that time," said Moore in an interview. But series of numbers, once begun, have a tendency to persist even when wrong, he explained.

"Concerned about statements that real earnings have gone nowhere since 1965," Moore recently wrote an article on the subject for The Morgan Guaranty Survey, a monthly examination of the economy published by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.

"Why the difference?" he asks in the article. He answers: "The main reason is that the monthly series is based on an assumption — and that assumption happens to be wrong." Numbers, no matter how neat they appear to be, are only as good as the assumption underlying them.

The assumption on which the lower earnings number is based is that the average worker who supports a family of four has the same weekly earnings as the average of all workers.

"But the average of all workers includes many who work only part of a week," Moore points out. And it also includes many young, single persons who have not yet attained their full earnings capacity.

"Hence it seriously understates the average earnings of a worker who supports a family of four," says Moore. And the distortion may be getting worse, because the percentage of part-time earners has been increasing.

Ironically, says Moore, "Many of these part-time earners are helping to increase family income, yet because they are averaged in with the rest, they actually reduce the figures used in monthly estimates."

Without getting into the mathematical details, it can be said that the distortion is even greater because the annual survey figure, the larger one, is a median, while the monthly estimate is based on an arithmetic mean.

"The median of an income distribution, as Mr. Jimmy Carter recently learned after his remark about taxes, is usually substantially lower than the mean," Moore comments.

But what does all this add up to? To bad decisions, of course. If the numbers aren't real, if they are nothing but symbols adrift, how can we deal with the realities — which too often today include inflation? This is how Moore expresses it:

"By issuing, 12 times a year, figures that substantially understate the level and the trend of real earnings of the typical family head, the government itself creates an instrument of inflation — for it fosters and appears to justify pay demands that exceed the limitations imposed by increases in productivity."

Why does this substitution of numbers for analysis continue? "It started years and years ago and probably at that time there wasn't anything better and it looked like a pretty good series," said Moore in the interview, adding:

"There is a tendency for all statistics to persist because of the vested interest of those compiling and using them. They want to see what the figures show each month."

"Like fortune tellers," said a long-suffering economist here.

Voters okayed the idea at the polls giving the 15-member commission permission to study the needs of the city, propose improvements and make recommendations subject to the approval of voters in a future election. The idea was to up the city's charter to meet present demands.

Voters in Williamsport crowded the polls with 90 per cent of those eligible casting a vote. William B. Johnson was elected mayor.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I'm 13 and I would like to have surgery on my nose to make it smaller. My parents say that I must wait until I'm 16. I'd like your opinion if it's necessary to wait until then. I know that your recommendation would help me present a good argument to my parents.

Miss P. N., N.Y.

Dear Miss N.: I'm certain that it was with the help of a plastic surgeon that your parents arrived at the decision for you to wait until you're 16 before surgery.

I think that this is a proper conclusion. At 13, the entire bone structure of the nose and face has not yet reached complete maturity. After this time, it's a fair assumption that the end result of the plastic surgery would be more satisfying to you.

I do appreciate the fact that you're impatient to have this done. Your parents seem to be most understanding and are not deliberately trying to dissuade you from surgery. Rather, they are hoping to find the ideal time for the ideal result.

Governors Seek Meet With Carter

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — Appalachia's governors have requested a meeting with president-elect Jimmy Carter to discuss the future of their sprawling 13-state region.

The governors and their representatives — members of the Appalachian Regional Commission — voted here Tuesday to ask for a meeting with the newly elected Democrat. They felt he would be especially knowledgeable on and sympathetic to the area's problems, having once served as a member of the ARC as governor of Georgia.

The ARC members were particularly interested in energy development — particularly coal, which Carter has said he favors over nuclear power.

Moore and Carroll proposed that the ARC push for more federal funding of coal liquefaction and gasification research.

Representatives of South Carolina, where no coal is mined, argued for nuclear energy. The prevailing sentiment, however, definitely supported coal, which is mined in most of the Appalachian states.

Moore pointed out that increased coal production could mean a need for improved housing and highways in the coalfields. The governors voted to include a 65-mile stretch of W.Va. 10 — which runs through the heart of the state's southern coalfield — in the ARC's access road system.

But they didn't get around to voting on a proposal that would permit the

While they acknowledged the need for updated housing, education and health services, they agreed that some uniform energy policy must be adopted as soon as possible. U.S. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., shared this view.

Randolph addressed the ARC meeting at the Greenbrier resort Tuesday and called for the quick formulation of a strong national energy policy. He said coal will be the major energy source in this country for at least another 80 years.

The governors of West Virginia and Kentucky, Arch A. Moore Jr. and Julian Carroll, also made strong pitches for coal development and research. They said coal was vital to their states, the region and the nation.

The governors passed two resolutions. One allows their representatives to vote on their behalf and the other continues the funding of existing programs.

Man Still Wants To Be Executed

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Convicted murderer Gary Mark Gilmore says he has accepted his punishment and has asked the Utah Supreme Court to let him be shot by a firing squad next Monday.

But two court-appointed attorneys are arguing in favor of a stay of execution for Gilmore. The lawyers, Craig Snyder and Michael Esplin, appealed to the state high court on Monday over Gilmore's objections.

The court, on a 3-2 vote, granted an indefinite stay of execution pending review of the capital-punishment statute and Gilmore's case.

Deputy Warden Leon Hatch of the Utah State Prison said Gilmore would be escorted to a court hearing today at the State Capitol under tight security. He will be transported from a prison about 20 miles south at Point of the Mountain.

Hatch said two court-appointed attorneys who sought the stay against Gilmore's wishes would also appear.

Syrians In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks moved into Beirut without opposition today to begin enforcing peace in Lebanon.

A column of 50 tanks swept into Galerie Samaan, on the southeastern edge of the Lebanese capital and the scene of heavy fighting in the 19-month-old civil war.

Smiling residents waved from their balconies as the armored unit moved through Moslem and Christian areas.

"If they are coming to help our country, then welcome them 100 times," said Joseph Salloum, a Christian grocer in the Hazmieh suburb.

Assuming their new role as the striking fist of the enlarged Arab League peace force, the Syrians got under way at dawn for seafaring positions along the rear lines of Beirut's Moslem and Christian combatants.

The Palestinians and leftist Moslem Lebanese reported the Syrians were advancing toward the Beirut airport south of the city without opposition.

Christian spokesmen reported other Syrian units were sweeping through the Christian heartland northeast of Beirut according to plan.

Christian leaders earlier ordered their supporters to put up no resistance, but Christians in Beirut demonstrated Tuesday against the Syrians.

as would a California lawyer engaged to represent the convict in his fight to die.

Gilmore, 35, was convicted of first-degree murder in the death of a Provo motel clerk, and a District Court judge sentenced him to death.

No one has been executed in the United States since 1967.

On Tuesday, Deputy Atty. Gen. Robert B. Hansen, who will become attorney general in January, filed a motion with the Supreme Court asking it to reconsider its stay order.

If the stay is revoked, Hansen said, the execution would go ahead at 8 a.m. Monday as scheduled.

On two occasions Gilmore, who has spent 18 of his 35 years in penal institutions, wrote to the justices asking them to ignore any attempts to have his execution stayed.

"You sentence a man to die — me — and when I accept this most extreme punishment with grace and dignity, you, the people of Utah want to back down and argue with me about it," Gilmore wrote.

Esplin and Snyder suggested in their petition to stay the execution that Gilmore's insistence on execution might be in part a "suicide attempt."

Hansen's motion listed nine reasons for reconsidering the stay, including that the request for it was submitted against Gilmore's wishes by counsel who he did not want to represent him. The night before Snyder and Esplin filed notice of appeal, Gilmore tried to dismiss them. The court, however, continued to recognize them as acting in his interest.

Hansen also said that a federal court might find that holding Gilmore beyond the execution date against his will was cruel and unusual punishment, which is forbidden by the 8th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

"If they are coming to help our country, then welcome them 100 times," said Joseph Salloum, a Christian grocer in the Hazmieh suburb.

Assuming their new role as the striking fist of the enlarged Arab League peace force, the Syrians got under way at dawn for seafaring positions along the rear lines of Beirut's Moslem and Christian combatants.

The Palestinians and leftist Moslem Lebanese reported the Syrians were advancing toward the Beirut airport south of the city without opposition.

Christian spokesmen reported other Syrian units were sweeping through the Christian heartland northeast of Beirut according to plan.

Christian leaders earlier ordered their supporters to put up no resistance, but Christians in Beirut demonstrated Tuesday against the Syrians.

Governors Seek Meet With Carter

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — Appalachia's governors have requested a meeting with president-elect Jimmy Carter to discuss the future of their sprawling 13-state region.

The governors and their representatives — members of the Appalachian Regional Commission — voted here Tuesday to ask for a meeting with the newly elected Democrat. They felt he would be especially knowledgeable on and sympathetic to the area's problems, having once served as a member of the ARC as governor of Georgia.

The ARC members were particularly interested in energy development — particularly coal, which Carter has said he favors over nuclear power.

Moore and Carroll proposed that the ARC push for more federal funding of coal liquefaction and gasification research.

Representatives of South Carolina, where no coal is mined, argued for nuclear energy. The prevailing sentiment, however, definitely supported coal, which is mined in most of the Appalachian states.

Moore pointed out that increased coal production could mean a need for improved housing and highways in the coalfields. The governors voted to include a 65-mile stretch of W.Va. 10 — which runs through the heart of the state's southern coalfield — in the ARC's access road system.

But they didn't get around to voting on a proposal that would permit the

While they acknowledged the need for updated housing, education and health services, they agreed that some uniform energy policy must be adopted as soon as possible. U.S. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., shared this view.

Randolph addressed the ARC meeting at the Greenbrier resort Tuesday and called for the quick formulation of a strong national energy policy. He said coal will be the major energy source in this country for at least another 80 years.

The governors of West Virginia and Kentucky, Arch A. Moore Jr. and Julian Carroll, also made strong pitches for coal development and research. They said coal was vital to their states, the region and the nation.

ARC to finance construction of public housing. The matter will be decided by mailed ballots before the end of the year.

The governors passed two resolutions. One allows their representatives to vote on their behalf and the other continues the funding of existing programs.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Abby Scored For Sexist Reply

DEAR ABBY: CHICAGO CHICKEN said he was afraid he'd feel like less of a man if he had a vasectomy, and you said, "If you're afraid you'll feel that way, the chances are you WILL." You then suggested that he place the burden of birth control on his wife!

Abby, you blew it on a number of counts:

1. Since when is being a father the ultimate sign of manhood? What does that make males who desert their children?

2. Since when should women bear the full responsibility for birth control so the male can feel like a "man"?

3. Using your logic and his, does his wife become less of a woman after she loses her ability to bear children?

Abby, how could you?

D.K.

DEAR D.K.: It was easy. Old attitudes die hard. Having been taught by a loving mother that "Papa comes first," my response was automatic and admittedly sexist and thoughtless. My apologies to women everywhere who are striving for equality with men.

I'll take 20 lashes with a copy of the Equal Rights Amendment.

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter recently from a well-intentioned woman who suggested that volunteers occasionally take occupants in nursing homes for an "outing" instead of visiting them amid the same four walls they stare at day after day.

My own mother went into a nursing home at age 91, and remained there until she died at 96.

Every Sunday when I took her for a long ride, I'd fill up the car with other residents. Then one day, a nurse asked me if I realized that I would be vulnerable to a lawsuit were I to have an accident with one of the old folks in Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

Turkey Dinner Served To Members Of Dorcas Class

A turkey dinner was served at noon Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Erma Iles, 350 Logan St., to members of Dorcas Sunday School Class of Calvary United Methodist Church. The Rev. Eugene Purdy, pastor of the church, was a guest for the day and gave the table grace.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Hazel Cline and Ruth Waple. Guest speaker was Robert Mai of the Health Department. He showed a film on Swine Flu and conducted a question and answer period.

During the business meeting conducted by Frances Davis, and opened with prayer, officers for 1977 were elected. The officers are Mrs. Erma Iles, president; Mrs. Frances Davis, vice-president; Mrs. Hazel Cline, secretary; Mrs. Ruth Waple, assistant secretary; Mrs. Annette Lape, treasurer; Mrs. Nellie Conrad, assistant treasurer.

Thank offering boxes were submitted. The money is to be used for the sanctuary fund at the church. Miniature money bags were given to the 10 members present for a special offering for the money tree for a needy person. The food box was filled for a family at Thanksgiving. Members were reminded to bring small Christmas gifts for inactive members to the December meeting.

Hazel Cline used as her topic for devotions "The Practice Of Saying Grace." Scripture was from the book of Luke 9:12-17 and reading the poem "What? Grace!"

The next meeting will be Dec. 1 with members eating lunch at a restaurant and conducting the business meeting and gift exchange at the home of Mrs. Talmer Wise, E. Franklin St. Erma Iles will be co-hostess.

Martha Huston Demonstrates Wreath Making

Solaqua Garden Club met Friday at the home of Mrs. Everett Peters, 13344 Ashville Pike. Mrs. Austin Hoover presided at the business meeting. She congratulated members who had won prizes at the Pumpkin Show. An invitation from Circleville Junior Women's Club to its Family Brunch, Nov. 20, was read.

Mrs. Hoover announced the next regular meeting would be a carry-in dinner at the Robtown Church at noon, Dec. 3. Members will exchange Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Martha Huston reminded members of the Regional Garden Club meeting in Chillicothe on Nov. 11. Mrs. Peters presented a film and lead a discussion on cancer detection.

Mrs. Pauline Savey gave a demonstration on making wreaths and other decorations of whatever one has on hand. She displayed a number of wreaths made by using frayed burlap, pinecones, milkweed pods, ribbon, scraps of material, plastic bottles and boxwood cuttings. All were over cloth covered wire, pasteboard, straw or plastic bases. One particularly lovely door decoration was of tin can lids pleated to resemble shallow bells.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to 18 members.

MORNING COFFEE

Cranberry cake, coffee.

Cranberry Cake

Give a cake mix new texture and flavor.

18½-ounce package yellow cake mix
½ cup cornstarch
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs

½ cup corn oil
½ cup cranberry juice cocktail
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup coarsely chopped cranberries
½ cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts

In the large bowl of an electric mixer stir together the cake mix, cornstarch and cinnamon. Add the eggs, oil, cranberry juice and vanilla; at low speed beat until moistened. At medium speed beat for 3 minutes. Fold in cranberries and nuts. Turn into a greased 10-inch angelcake pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 60 to 70 minutes. Cool in pan or wire rack for 10 minutes; loosen edges and turn out on rack; cool completely.

When you are serving tomato-juice cocktail to a crowd, it's a good idea to buy the 46-ounce can; it will yield about 5¼ cups. Just add lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce to taste and offer in small glasses along with cheese straws.

my car, or if one fell getting in or out of it.

After that, even though my heart went out to the old people, I stopped taking them for rides, but I did visit with them as often as possible.

There is just no good answer to the problem of loneliness there. Mama used to sit outside the door in a rocker, and once when I drove up, I said, "Mother, what are you doing out here? It's cold!"

She answered, "I'm just waiting for you." I kissed her and asked, "How did you know it was Sunday?" She answered, "I didn't. I wait for you every day."

G.W.

DEAR G.W.: Volunteers who visit nursing homes if only to talk with the residents there are offered places of honor in my pantheon of heroes.

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere in a modest home is the luckiest woman alive, and I'm sure she isn't even aware of it.

The OTHER WOMAN usually writes a tale of woe. I am the OTHER WOMAN but I have no "tale of woe" because of a decision I have just made. This wife I speak of is lucky because her children are healthy and well-behaved. They have a pleasant, middle-class home, with good food, good clothes and a good car.

Their lives are secure. Her husband is with her and he always will be. If I would tell his wife one thing, it would be to LOVE her husband and let him know it.

He wanted me, and I wanted him, and only God knew how much. But when people are basically good, they refuse to hurt innocent people, especially children. He's the man I've been searching for all my life. I love him and he knows it. But he is HER husband, and THEIR father. And he has integrity. I wish he were mine. But he's not, and he never will be.

Thank you, Abby, for letting me say this. I feel better now.

Strauss To Quit As Demo Leader

DALLAS (AP) — Robert Strauss says he will relinquish the chairmanship of the National Democratic party on Jan. 21, one day after Jimmy Carter's inauguration as president.

But Strauss, who has held the post for four years, said he will continue to help Carter with cabinet selections and other appointments.

Strauss said he plans to return to his private Dallas law practice after he finishes his party work. But he declined to rule out the possibility that he would accept a presidential appointment if one were offered.

County Gets Horse Race Betting Tax

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson announced today the distribution of $109,900.38 in state horse race betting taxes to 48 county and two independent agricultural societies which allowed betting at their fairs last summer.

Pickaway County received $549. Delaware County, home of the "Little Brown Jug", received $56,491.59 of the total amount returned to the counties for distribution to their agricultural societies, Ferguson noted.

The two independent agricultural societies, Plain City Independent Agricultural and Richwood Independent Agricultural, received $572.34 and $884.76 respectively.

The state puts one half of one per cent of all parimutuel money collected into the Ohio Fairs Fund, Ferguson said. All county and independent agricultural societies sponsoring fairs share this money.

The state returns the remainder of the parimutuel money to the county and independent agricultural societies which permitted the betting, he added.

Number Not Name

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — What's in a name? Not numbers, according to the North Dakota Supreme Court.

The high court refused to overturn a Cass County District Court's rejection of Michael Herbert Dengler's petition to change his name to 1069. Dengler said the numbers express his philosophy of his relationship with nature, time and the universe.

Associate Justice Paul M. Sand disagreed, though he noted that "Innovative ideas, even though bordering on the bizarre, are frequently encouraged and may be protected by the law..."

But he said, "We are satisfied that the legislature, in giving authority to the courts to change a name, had in mind a name as understood and defined by common law and did not include change from a name to a number."

Accountability Boards Success

SEATTLE (AP) — Ray Olsen 17, who had "borrowed" an unlocked car and wrecked it, was given two choices by police: juvenile court or a neighborhood accountability board.

Olsen chose the latter, appearing before the Ballard-Fremont Accountability Board composed of people from his own neighborhood.

"When I went there I didn't think it was going to be that bad," Ray said, "but they sort of shook me up. They asked me questions about why I did it and if I thought it was a four to be made to pay back..."

"They recommended that I do 85 hours of community service work for pay to repay the victim for his loss, and 15 hours without pay," Ray said.

Olsen was one of a number of delinquent youths being sent to three neighborhood "accountability boards" in Seattle.

An official says the boards may have reduced the rate of increase in burglary, auto theft and larceny in the three neighborhoods.

David Moseley, who heads the program under the city's Department of Human Resources, said about half the restitution ordered under the plan is monetary repayment to victims of juvenile crime. The rest is symbolic restitution to pay back the community.

The boards are operated by 40 to 75 volunteers in each neighborhood and are funded by $500,000 per year in federal money designed to cut street crime, Moseley said.

More than 70 per cent of the city's apprehended burglars, auto thieves and larcenists are juveniles, Moseley said. Although these three offenses have increased all over Seattle by 13.4 per cent, he said, they are only 7.2 per cent in the neighborhoods served by the accountability programs.

"I think the statistics are indicative of the effect of our program," Moseley said.

A youth chooses the accountability board with his parents' consent. Although the parents don't appear with their off-spring before the board, they can ask it to reconsider its decision or take the case back to court.

Most of the cases heard involve shoplifting, vandalism, auto theft and burglary. The boards don't handle more serious crimes.

Moseley said deterrence is just as important in the program as crime control. That's the reason for having the youth pay for his crime right in front of his neighbors.

Another youth, Earl Patterson, 17, was caught shoplifting and referred to an accountability board.

"I think it's better than juvenile court," he said. "You've got more of a choice and they try to understand you here.

"People in the community are jurors. If there is somebody on the board you think won't be fair to you, you can ask for a new hearing. "You discuss with them what to do and you just work it off. Everything is confidential, nothing goes out of the room."

Deaf Mute's Trial Opens

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Appointment of translators and election of a jury completed, the trial of James Robert Hunt, 24, a deaf mute accused of murdering a neighbor woman, was to begin today.

The jury was to inspect the alleged murder scene and hear opening statements.

A seven-man, five-woman panel was chosen Tuesday after the court approved the appointment of two translators, one for the prosecution and one for the defense, to interpret court proceedings for Hunt with sign language.

Hunt is accused of the beating death of Ruth Norleen Arledge, 56, whose body was found in a roadside ditch in Tar Hollow State Forest north of here in March 1974.

Hunt was committed to a state mental institution for two years after he was charged in the death so he could learn sign language to assist in his defense. He lost his voice and hearing as a child following an illness.

Seek Funds For Railroad

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, has informed Clermont County Commissioners that long-sought funds to finance a scenic railroad will be pursued.

Glenn, in a letter to the commission, said the funds might be obtained for the recreational road on abandoned tracks through the Railroad Reorganization and Revitalization Act of 1976.

Glenn said other legislative efforts have begun "to provide direct appropriations for acquisition of abandoned rail properties for inclusion into the National Trails System."

The planned railroad would run through portions of Clermont, Warren and Hamilton counties.

BancOhio's History Dates To 1920s

With 41 affiliate banks and combined assets of over $3.6 billion, BancOhio Corporation ranks as the 42 largest banking organization in the U.S., offering complete banking service to a majority of Ohio's 11 million people.

BancOhio affiliate banks are located all over the state, providing a broad range of diversified retail and commercial banking service — from consumer and business demand and time deposits to installment, real estate, and commercial loans and leasing operations, as well as a variety of fiduciary and trust services offered by 11 affiliates.

The 216 banking offices of BancOhio are evidence of a commitment to bring maximum banking strength to two out of every three Ohioans.

BancOhio's more than 14,000 shareholders, living in 85 of Ohio's 88 counties, 49 states, and 5 foreign countries, have shared in the financial growth and stability of the corporation through distribution of dividends in every quarter since its organization.

As a national pioneer in the development of multi-bank holding companies, BancOhio's philosophy is to have each bank operate with its own management and staff, including a local president and board of directors who make decisions right in town.

To supplement the affiliate staffs, and provide expertise not usually available to individual banks, BancOhio provides affiliates with special services such as loan administration, leasing, marketing services, investment management, data processing, trust services, legal counseling, design and construction of banking facilities, and other operational services.

BancOhio staff services to affiliates are concentrated in the development of more and better services to customers. Often, complete services — including marketing support — are developed for groups of affiliates at reduced costs. For example, the 24-hour "Anytime Banks" machine provides customers of more than 20 affiliates access to most needed banking services at any time of the day or night. Customers of participating affiliates may make checking account withdrawals or obtain Master Charge cash advances at any of the 60 Anytime Bank machines located throughout the state.

The competitive stance of affiliates is further enhanced by the combined resources of the total BancOhio system, which gives each a potential aggregate lending limit of more than $20 million per customer. To provide financial services for industrial and commercial customers, international banking services are available to all affiliates through direct-deposit relationships with large, well-established banks overseas.

The commitment to respond to the challenges of Ohio's future financial needs is symbolized in the distinctive 25-story office, banking, and retail complex recently completed in Columbus — housing the headquarters of both BancOhio Corporation and its lead bank, Ohio National Bank. The nearly 500,000 sq. ft. complex provides BancOhio with modern, efficient office and operational facilities needed to support programs for future growth and development.

During the 1920's, a new movement in bank organization and management appeared throughout the nation. It was known as group banking, through

Abortion Payments To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a law that bars the use of Medicaid funds to pay for elective abortions, the federal government must continue paying for the abortions for the time being, the Supreme Court has ruled.

Without a hint of what they might decide in the future if the case eventually reaches them, the justices on Monday turned down a request by two senators and a representative that a federal judge's order for continued abortion payments be temporarily set aside.

U.S. District Judge John F. Dooling in Brooklyn, N.Y., last month struck down as unconstitutional a part of an appropriations act passed by Congress that banned federal funding for elective abortions. His ruling is binding throughout the nation.

The law's wording, introduced as an amendment by Rep. Henry J. Hyde, R-Ill., said that no money appropriated in Congress' $56.5 billion bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare "shall be used to perform abortions except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term."

The federal government each year pays about $50 million to states to finance about 300,000 abortions under Medicaid. About one million abortions are performed annually in the United States, health officials estimate. Payments for child delivery and post-natal care would be much higher, they estimate.

ownership of several independent banks by a holding company.

In 1929, a number of strong bank holding companies were formed. A. P. Giannini, for instance, organized the giant Transamerica Corporation, which owned the Bank of America and several other major banks in California, Oregon, and Washington.

That same year, BancOhio Corporation was formed in Columbus, as a means of providing Central Ohio with a self-sufficient banking system — independent of technical and financial support from outside sources.

"BancOhio" was selected as the name for the new organization: the letter "c" replacing the "k" in "Bank" because state regulations prevent an organization not actually chartered as an individual bank from using the word "bank" in its name.

It was the only bank holding company in Ohio, and over the troubled times of the following decade, BancOhio provided an umbrella of protection to smaller banks throughout the state. Affiliation with BancOhio provided salvation to worried directors, shareholders, and officers of banks caught in the depression maelstrom of past due loans and declining asset values. BancOhio offered strength, capital, supervision, management, and direction.

By 1933, BancOhio had acquired, merged, or organized 19 banks, saving many from failure. The corporation was successful and operating well in the black.

A few hours after Franklin Roosevelt was inaugurated on March 4, 1933, he declared the historic national bank holiday. During the Ohio bank moratorium, BancOhio and its affiliate banks refused to limit withdrawals, since the directors and officers were determined that their customers would not be adversely affected.

Finally, it was announced that Class "A" banks — those with no question of soundness — would reopen on March 15. On that date, all BancOhio affiliates opened their doors with no government aid whatsoever. Of the larger cities in Ohio, only Cincinnati in addition to Columbus came through this difficult period without the loss of a bank or a delay in reopening. The BancOhio concept had proven its effectiveness.

Deaf Mute's Trial Opens

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Appointment of translators and election of a jury completed, the trial of James Robert Hunt, 24, a deaf mute accused of murdering a neighbor woman, was to begin today.

The jury was to inspect the alleged murder scene and hear opening statements.

A seven-man, five-woman panel was chosen Tuesday after the court approved the appointment of two translators, one for the prosecution and one for the defense, to interpret court proceedings for Hunt with sign language.

Hunt is accused of the beating death of Ruth Norleen Arledge, 56, whose body was found in a roadside ditch in Tar Hollow State Forest north of here in March 1974.

Hunt was committed to a state mental institution for two years after he was charged in the death so he could learn sign language to assist in his defense. He lost his voice and hearing as a child following an illness.

Seek Funds For Railroad

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, has informed Clermont County Commissioners that long-sought funds to finance a scenic railroad will be pursued.

Glenn, in a letter to the commission, said the funds might be obtained for the recreational road on abandoned tracks through the Railroad Reorganization and Revitalization Act of 1976.

Glenn said other legislative efforts have begun "to provide direct appropriations for acquisition of abandoned rail properties for inclusion into the National Trails System."

The planned railroad would run through portions of Clermont, Warren and Hamilton counties.

BancOhio's History Dates To 1920s

With 41 affiliate banks and combined assets of over $3.6 billion, BancOhio Corporation ranks as the 42 largest banking organization in the U.S., offering complete banking service to a majority of Ohio's 11 million people.

BancOhio affiliate banks are located all over the state, providing a broad range of diversified retail and commercial banking service — from consumer and business demand and time deposits to installment, real estate, and commercial loans and leasing operations, as well as a variety of fiduciary and trust services offered by 11 affiliates.

The 216 banking offices of BancOhio are evidence of a commitment to bring maximum banking strength to two out of every three Ohioans.

BancOhio's more than 14,000 shareholders, living in 85 of Ohio's 88 counties, 49 states, and 5 foreign countries, have shared in the financial growth and stability of the corporation through distribution of dividends in every quarter since its organization.

As a national pioneer in the development of multi-bank holding companies, BancOhio's philosophy is to have each bank operate with its own management and staff, including a local president and board of directors who make decisions right in town.

To supplement the affiliate staffs, and provide expertise not usually available to individual banks, BancOhio provides affiliates with special services such as loan administration, leasing, marketing services, investment management, data processing, trust services, legal counseling, design and construction of banking facilities, and other operational services.

BancOhio staff services to affiliates are concentrated in the development of more and better services to customers. Often, complete services — including marketing support — are developed for groups of affiliates at reduced costs. For example, the 24-hour "Anytime Banks" machine provides customers of more than 20 affiliates access to most needed banking services at any time of the day or night. Customers of participating affiliates may make checking account withdrawals or obtain Master Charge cash advances at any of the 60 Anytime Bank machines located throughout the state.

The competitive stance of affiliates is further enhanced by the combined resources of the total BancOhio system, which gives each a potential aggregate lending limit of more than $20 million per customer. To provide financial services for industrial and commercial customers, international banking services are available to all affiliates through direct-deposit relationships with large, well-established banks overseas.

The commitment to respond to the challenges of Ohio's future financial needs is symbolized in the distinctive 25-story office, banking, and retail complex recently completed in Columbus — housing the headquarters of both BancOhio Corporation and its lead bank, Ohio National Bank. The nearly 500,000 sq. ft. complex provides BancOhio with modern, efficient office and operational facilities needed to support programs for future growth and development.

During the 1920's, a new movement in bank organization and management appeared throughout the nation. It was known as group banking, through

Abortion Payments To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a law that bars the use of Medicaid funds to pay for elective abortions, the federal government must continue paying for the abortions for the time being, the Supreme Court has ruled.

Without a hint of what they might decide in the future if the case eventually reaches them, the justices on Monday turned down a request by two senators and a representative that a federal judge's order for continued abortion payments be temporarily set aside.

U.S. District Judge John F. Dooling in Brooklyn, N.Y., last month struck down as unconstitutional a part of an appropriations act passed by Congress that banned federal funding for elective abortions. His ruling is binding throughout the nation.

The law's wording, introduced as an amendment by Rep. Henry J. Hyde, R-Ill., said that no money appropriated in Congress' $56.5 billion bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare "shall be used to perform abortions except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term."

The federal government each year pays about $50 million to states to finance about 300,000 abortions under Medicaid. About one million abortions are performed annually in the United States, health officials estimate. Payments for child delivery and post-natal care would be much higher, they estimate.

ownership of several independent banks by a holding company.

In 1929, a number of strong bank holding companies were formed. A. P. Giannini, for instance, organized the giant Transamerica Corporation, which owned the Bank of America and several other major banks in California, Oregon, and Washington.

That same year, BancOhio Corporation was formed in Columbus, as a means of providing Central Ohio with a self-sufficient banking system — independent of technical and financial support from outside sources.

"BancOhio" was selected as the name for the new organization: the letter "c" replacing the "k" in "Bank" because state regulations prevent an organization not actually chartered as an individual bank from using the word "bank" in its name.

It was the only bank holding company in Ohio, and over the troubled times of the following decade, BancOhio provided an umbrella of protection to smaller banks throughout the state. Affiliation with BancOhio provided salvation to worried directors, shareholders, and officers of banks caught in the depression maelstrom of past due loans and declining asset values. BancOhio offered strength, capital, supervision, management, and direction.

By 1933, BancOhio had acquired, merged, or organized 19 banks, saving many from failure. The corporation was successful and operating well in the black.

A few hours after Franklin Roosevelt was inaugurated on March 4, 1933, he declared the historic national bank holiday. During the Ohio bank moratorium, BancOhio and its affiliate banks refused to limit withdrawals, since the directors and officers were determined that their customers would not be adversely affected.

Finally, it was announced that Class "A" banks — those with no question of soundness — would reopen on March 15. On that date, all BancOhio affiliates opened their doors with no government aid whatsoever. Of the larger cities in Ohio, only Cincinnati in addition to Columbus came through this difficult period without the loss of a bank or a delay in reopening. The BancOhio concept had proven its effectiveness.

Controlling Board Holds Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Controlling Board has delayed action on or rejected requests that would have wiped out Ohio's remaining $2.4 million in emergency funds, which must last seven months until the end of the fiscal year June 30.

In addition, the Rhodes Administration withdrew a request for another $538,000 to retain Ernst & Ernst, a national accounting firm, for an audit seeking to expose fraud in the state's embattled workmen's compensation program.

Two week ago the board released $250,000 for an investigation of the injured workers' compensation system by Atty. Gen. William J. Brown.

Gov. James A. Rhodes earlier ordered more than two dozen special highway patrol investigators into a probe of what he called the biggest state scandal in history. More than 100 indictments have been returned in the Cleveland area, and officials say abuses are believed to exist statewide.

The board delayed action Monday on another request for $1.19 million in emergency funds from the natural resources department to provide back pay for 102 laid off employees who were later recalled on orders of the Board of Personnel Review.

Robert F. Howarth Jr., board president, requested deferment of the request pending resolution of a court case he said should help clarify the department's liability.

Another major request postponed by the seven-member board sought $758,000 to implement a new law that increased benefits for widows and survivors of police and firemen killed in the line of duty. Initial estimates of costs in the legislature had been about $100,000 for the first year.

Because the request on the police and firemen's pension system was incomplete, the board delayed action on the request until next year.

Rejected were emergency requests from the welfare department to enter into contracts costing more than $850,000 for studies on a new hospital reimbursement system and for development and testing of a state-county "teleprocessing" network. Democratic board members suggested the studies could be done within the department.

In other action, the board:

—Deferred a pension fund request for $758,000 to meet state liabilities under a new law that increased benefits for widows and survivors of police and firemen killed in the line of duty. The board ordered completion of a preliminary estimate of present and future costs;

—Released $115,000 to the transportation department for a consultant's study of the agency's existing system of highway maintenance;
—Authorized the youth commission to transfer $500,000 from its maintenance funds to expand its foster care program;
—Approved natural resource officials' request to spend $16,000 as the state's share of constructing a boat ramp facility in Lorain;

—Approved the loan application of the Joint Seneca-Sandusky-Hancock County Commission for a $49,725 watershed project on the west branch of Wolf Creek;
—Authorized release of $60,000 for the purchase of equipment for residential cottages at Mount Vernon Institute.

The word "explode" originally meant to drive an actor off the stage by clapping and hooting.

In the 1870s a million head of cattle were driven to Dodge City, Kan., for rail shipment to Kansas City. It was such a rough town that gunmen like Bat Masterson were hired to keep order.

The new decorations will be installed and lighted Thanksgiving weekend for the upcoming Christmas season.

Two Schools, Homes Hit By Burglars

Thieves broke into two houses and two schools Tuesday, according to reports at the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Dan Dewey said $67 in change was taken at the Westfall Middle School Monday night or Tuesday morning. The break-in was discovered by Oscar Atwood, janitor at the school.

Thieves gained entry by forcing the boiler room doors at the rear of the building.

They apparently worked their way to the main office area, and forced their way into the office of a secretary. Contents of her desk were dumped to the floor.

Force was used to gain entry to the principal's office, where contents of his desk were also scattered on the floor.

Fingerprints of the crime scene were obtained by Sheriff's Detective Don Thompson.

Only $3 in change and some stamps were taken from the Pickaway Twp. School. Route 1, according to Deputy Jim Deal. Elbert Rawlins, a janitor, discovered the break-in.

Thieves shattered a pane of glass in a door which leads to the shop area to gain entry. They apparently searched all the classrooms in the school except four.

The cash and stamps were taken from a desk in the office. Keys found in the desk were used in an unsuccessful attempt to open the wall safe.

In the cafeteria, the thieves dropped cheese on the floor after eating a portion. Using spoons, they apparently flipped peanut butter on the floors, walls, and ceiling. They also drank Coca-Cola and chocolate milk and dumped the remainder on the floor.

Thousands of dollars worth of household items and weapons were taken from the 9023 Perrill Road home of Joseph Sheets, according to Deputy Nick Franklin.

Fingerprints of the ransacked rooms were obtained by Lamar Grossard, an agent with London's Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification.

Entry was gained through a living room window. All rooms in the house and an outside storage shed were ransacked. A cake was dumped on the kitchen floor.

Merchandise taken includes seven rifles and a hand gun, two bows and arrows, a scope, knives, an adding machine, a vacuum cleaner, two television sets, an AM-FM and eight-track entertainment unit, tapes, a clock, a camera, two jewelry boxes, jewelry, and cash.

Thieves broke into a shed and three cars at the 10910 Walnut Creek Pike home of Norman Holley, according to Deputy Billy Huffman.

Three gas cans and a Suzuki Trail Hopper mini bike were taken from the shed and gasoline, carpeting, and gas caps were taken from the vehicles.

The thieves apparently pushed the mini bike to Duvall Road and tossed it over a guard rail. They then drove a mile south of Holley's home on Walnut Creek Pike and filled their car with gas taken from his vehicle.

The gas cans were found in a plowed field at that location.

Ohio Assembly Leadership Mostly Unchanged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lawmakers have chosen their leaders for the 12th General Assembly in which Democrats will hold a veto-proof majority in the Senate and House.

"You always go with a winning team, you know," said House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, after House Democrats re-elected their present lineup to serve as leaders in the 1976-77 session. Senate Democrats also voted to return present leaders for the next session.

Although disenchantment with the status was obvious in Republican ranks, only one minor change was made, as Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, succeeded Sen. Donald E. "Buzz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown, as Senate Minority Whip.

Incipient challenges to the three House Republican leaders fizzled when insurgents were unable to garner enough votes. Consequently, no other names were placed in nomination but several GOP representatives abstained in paper balloting for all three positions.

Rep. Richard H. Finan, R-19 Cincinnati, who had considered challenging Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, said the election results left him "frustrated and angry."

"We seem to win some battles, some skirmishes, but we keep losing the war every two years," the Hamilton County attorney said. "I just don't think we can continue to do business as usual."

Democrats held their 21-12 margin in the Senate last Tuesday while gaining three seats in the House for a 62-37 edge.

As a result next year, they will have one vote more than needed in the Senate to override Gov. James A. Rhodes' vetoes and two more than the minimum in the House.

Here are the leaders for the 112th

Methodists May Pull Out Of Coke Co.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "Coke Adds Life," goes the soft-drink ad. Now Coke wants to add a wine company, and it may lose the United Methodist Church as a shareholder if it does.

The church, which opposes use of alcohol, said Tuesday that it may sell its nearly $1 million worth of Coca-Cola Co. stock if the multi-billion-dollar firm, based in Atlanta, goes through with plans to acquire Taylor Wine Co. of New York.

A Coca-Cola spokesman in Atlanta said only one person on the corporate staff was authorized to discuss the matter, and he was not available.

The Rev. Mr. Lupo said he did not know the exact amount of Coca-Cola stock held by the church because the council's treasurer is on vacation. But he said 12,800 shares is "probably the ball park figure."

The stock closed on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday at $77.50 a share, making the church holdings worth more than $990,000.

The Rev. C.J. Lupo Jr. of Greenwood, S.C., chairman of the United Methodist General Council on Ministries' investment committee, said Tuesday that the proposed acquisition of the wine company came up at a recent Methodist world division meeting at Denver.

He said the church drafted a letter urging the company not to go through with the merger and warning that if the deal were consummated, the church would sell its stock. He said the stock is part of the denomination's $50 million investment program.

The Rev. Mr. Lupo said he did not know whether the company had responded to the letter.

"It's been the stand of the Methodist Church as long as I can remember, for total abstinence," said Leslie E. Barnhardt of Charlotte, a member of the council.

"Not all Methodists abide by this, but it has been a policy..." she said. "I'm sure there will be complaining...(but) there will be a lot who support the sale."

Taste Science Succeeds.

'Enriched Flavor'™ breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

By "cracking" cigarette smoke down into separate ingredients, researchers at Philip Morris discovered very special "key" flavor units that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.'

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco is MERIT. At 9 mg., one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet, MERIT actually packs the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against current leading low tar cigarettes ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The majority reported that even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than MERIT, MERIT delivered as much — or more — taste.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.

County Football Bows Out Friday

By CRAIG ALLISON
Herald Sports Writer

Pickaway County football for 1976 moves into its final act this Friday night, and it seems like just a few days ago that we were watching the players go through their paces in the August heat. But old Jack Frost has been a regular spectator at the last few games, and his arrival signals the end of the season in this area.

Two titanic matches head up the card this week. Westfall finished up their campaign last Saturday afternoon with a 12-0 victory over Southeastern High School.

The fireworks at Teays Valley get started when the Hurryin' Hurricane from Wilmington blows into the Viking Stadium at 8 p.m.

Dick Kidwell heads his Vikings into the fray with a lot of respect for the visitors. "They've got a good backfield. Their quarterback is good, their fullback is better, and their tailback is an excellent runner. On defense they are strong and very aggressive. We will be ready to play though. We are expecting a good ballgame. We will be very disappointed if we don't win," commented the Viking mentor.

What must the Vikes do to take the wind out of the Hurricane? Said Kidwell, "We have to take the running game away from their quarterback, we have to control the line of scrimmage, and we must run off tackle." So the Vikings have their work cut out for them. A bright note in the Viking camp this week is the fact that Scott Rader will be back in action as a defensive tackle. Rader saw action last week only as a kicker.

Concerning last week's victory over Grandview, the coaches had praise for the Vikings. "I thought we played a real good ball game," said Kidwell, "our entire defense hit well and hit consistently all night." Individuals coming in for praise were Joe Berger, Ray Nardi, and Dan Schooley for their outstanding offensive blocking.

Personnel for this week's offensive unit will be Lance Windon and Rick Queen at the ends, with Berger and Nardi at the tackles. The guards will be Rex Pierce and Ron Little, and Dan Schooley will snap the ball.

In the backfield will be Duane Keller at quarterback, Craig Ramey or John Woodruff at fullback, John Sanders at tailback, and Ian McIlvaine at the slotback.

On defense it will be Greg Moody and Berger at the ends, Kelly Kennedy and Rader at the tackles, and Pierce at middleguard.

The linebackers will be Little and Schooley, at the corners will be Mike Fisher and Jack Timmons, and the safeties will be Windon and Keller.

Logan Elm's Braves will be the deciding factor in the final outcome of the Mid State League standings this Friday night. They will be tangling with a bunch of tough cats when Pickerington's Tigers roar into the Braves' Stadium for an 8 p.m. kickoff.

"Picktown" holds a 9-0 slate for the 1976 campaign, and nothing would give the Braves more pleasure than beating the Tigers. To do that though, Coach Bill Frost said that his charges will have to stay low and try to close holes on defense. The Braves will be quicker than their opponents. The Tigers' line tips the scales at a 200 pound-plus average, while Frost stated that not a single Logan Elm griddle rivals that weight. But the Braves will be out to prove the old adage of "the bigger they are . . ." and don't be surprised if you see a lot of tall timber falling in Logan Elm's stadium Friday night.

Lining up on offense for the Braves will be Rock Huggins, Bruce Hannigan, and Mark Martin at the ends, with Rick McCain and Bill Leist at the tackles. The guards will be Lynn Strehle, Gary Weaver, and Willard Faulk, and the center will be Terry Wadlington.

Tony Crist gets the nod at quarterback, Jerry Scanlan will move from the fullback post, Tim Justus will roll out of left halfback, and Oscar Allen or Dave Calton will be the right halfback.

On defense it will be Huggins and

Allen at the ends, with Weaver and McCain at the tackles. Cliff Hoover and Larry Smith will be the guards, and roaming at the linebackers will be Scanlan and Jim McGuire. The corners will be Tim Davis and Brian Hannigan, and the safety will be John Scanlan or Calton.

If Pickerington would lose Friday and Bloom-Carroll would win over the Amanda-Clearcreek Aces, the MSL crown will be shared by Pickerington and Bloom-Carroll. However, if Pickerington and Bloom-Carroll both lose, Pickerington would still win the MSL title outright, and Bloom-Carroll would share the second spot with Amanda-Clearcreek.

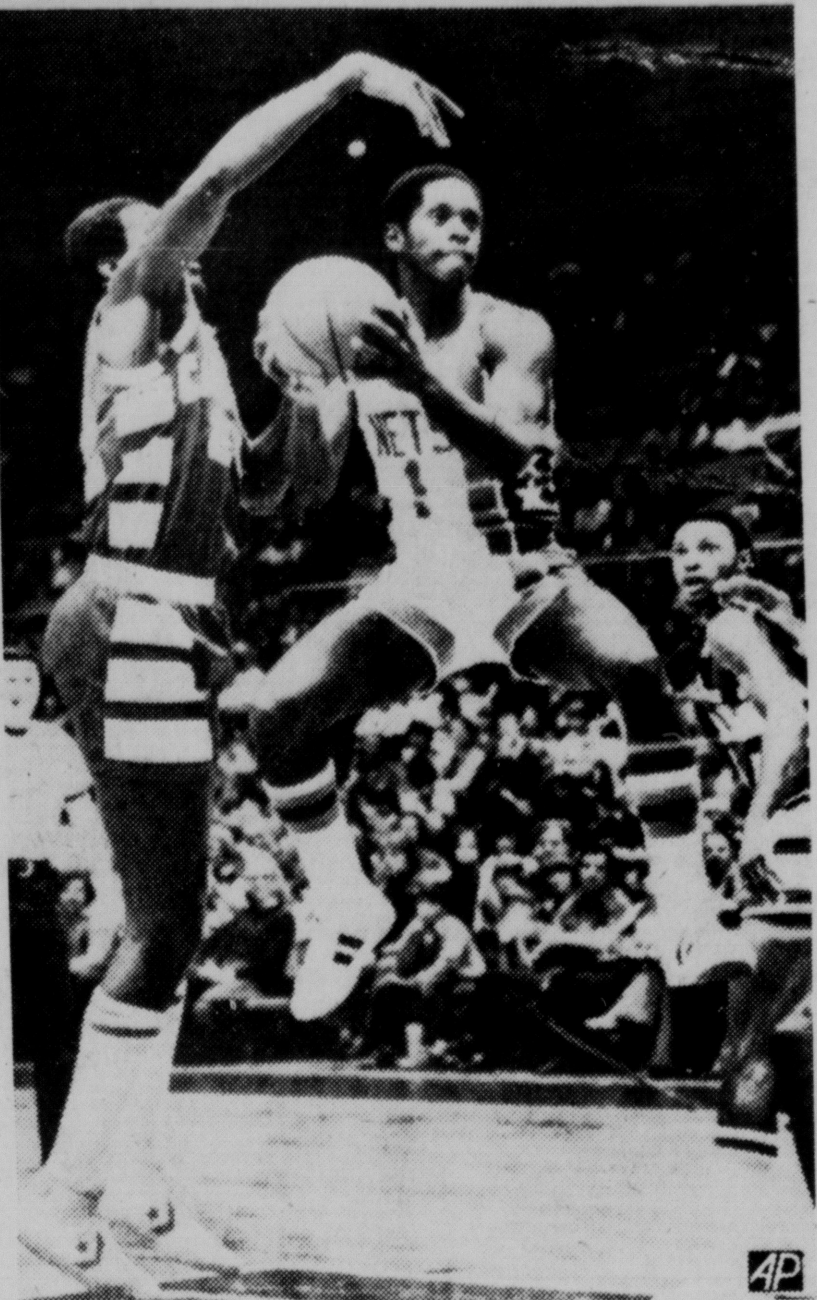

We would like to send our thanks to the high school bands who worked just as hard as the athletic teams this season, and received little attention. These people really put on some productions and more than once we noticed that people were staying in their seats instead of running to the concession stands at halftime.

So it all ends Friday, and the saying that "time flies" really applies to the 1976 high school football season. After Friday's games, they'll padlock the stadiums and let them sit alone through the winter to reflect on what they've seen. We've thought about what we've seen too. We have seen some great bands, and we have seen a bunch of young people playing their hearts out Friday after Friday. They haven't always come out ahead with the score, but they've always been winners in our book. The players and coaches have always had the door wide open for us and helped us in any way possible.

Our old buddy "Willie the Dillie" has always said that people in this area run a first class organization with first class people, and we can't agree more. The pleasure has been ours. We'll see you at the game Friday night.

Bengals In Hot Seat

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals players aren't talking about a Super Bowl for real yet but were swelling a little over controlling their own fate for the first time in the American Conference Central Division of the National Football League. "It feels good," said veteran tight end Bob Trumpy, who caught a touchdown pass in Monday night's 20-12 victory over the powerful Los Angeles Rams leaving Cincinnati with a 7-2 record, two full games ahead of the Super Bowl Champion Pittsburgh Steelers, 5-4, traditional leaders of the division in recent years. "We've never had this before where we can seal our own fate." New Coach Bill Johnson did not sit back to ponder the victory over the Rams.

"This is just another win," said Johnson "Now we have to concentrate on Houston," a game Cincinnati is supposed to win. He was perturbed about the interruption in the normal practice schedule because the Rams game was played on Monday night. "It disrupts the whole program," he said, noting the practice week is 1 1/2 days shorter this week. Cincinnati must defeat the teams it is expected to beat the remainder of the season—Houston, Kansas City and the New York Jets, and beat either Pittsburgh or Oakland to assure a division championship. Pittsburgh finishes against Miami, Houston, Cincinnati, Tampa Bay and Houston again. The Steelers beat the Bengals in the first game and ended a four-game losing streak. "Maybe we were too tight on offense," said veteran center Bob Johnson, talking about the Rams 6-0 shutout of Cincinnati in the first half. The Bengals came back in the third quarter with 20 points to win the game. "The Rams certainly are more used to playing on Monday nights than we are. "But it was just a matter of time for a team that wants it as bad as we do."

Year Big Difference For Lakewood Team

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — What a difference a year makes for Lakewood St. Edward, The Associated Press' 1975 Class AAA poll champion that finished second in the postseason playoffs. Under Mike Currance a year ago, St. Edward averaged more than 30 points in rolling to an undefeated season. Assistant Coach Dan Flaherty was the coordinator of that splendid attack. Now, in a twist of irony, Flaherty runs the whole show and the Eagles are 8-1 because of defense. St. Edward has yielded just 9.7 points per game and posted five shutouts. Around Ohio: Two Toledo powers face a dilemma. St. John's and Central Catholic are both prime candidates to earn state semifinal berths by leading their regionals. And both have qualified for the city playoff. The problem? The state semifinals and the city title game are the same weekend. Speaking of the playoffs, three games in the Fostoria area Saturday involve four semifinal possibilities, Fostoria St. Wendelin, Tiffin Calvert, Sandusky St. Mary's and Fremont St. Joseph. St. Wendelin faces Norwalk St. Paul, Calvert plays at St. Mary's and St. Joseph awaits Eastwood. Dayton Meadowdale and Cincinnati Reading, two unbeaten, sport a pair of 1,000-yard rushing backs. Tim Campbell has 1,150 and Jeff Crane 1,100 for Meadowdale. Reading's aces are Tim Fouchey (1,593) and Glenn Bullock (1,042). Canton McKinley, which faces Massillon in their annual showdown Saturday, faces its poorest season in 23 years. The Bulldogs are 4-5-0. You have to go back to Wade Watts' 1953 squad, with a 3-6-1 effort, to find a poorer McKinley record. Napoleon's Chuck Buckenmeyer needs one more victory to reach 200 career coaching triumphs. In 28 years at Napoleon, Buckenmeyer is 199-45. Class AA Port Clinton's 8-1 accomplishment includes six victories in seven games against AAA opposition, pitching six shutouts at home. Albany Alexander has been tough on defense, too, yielding just 77 points in its last 19 games. Individual glitter: Kevin Cannon, New Lexington, six touchdowns, 278 yards against Morgan, 120 points this fall; Allan Young, Fairport Harbor Harding, 140 points, best in North-eastern Ohio; Tim Loeser, Avon Lake, 152 yards Friday, 1,320 for the season and three school records. Picketon Junior High School, coached by Keith Willson, has finished its fifth straight unbeaten season. The team has 37 straight victories and last lost in 1971 to Portsmouth West.

Ice Fishing Without Ice

Local panfishermen awaiting the ice fishing season can try the following method for harvesting large bluegills during the late fall months. Attach two tiny ice fishing jigs (size 10 - 12 hooks) about a foot and a half apart on the end of your line. Impale a waxworm onto each jig and fish the jigs as close to the bottom as possible using the smallest bobber that will float. Fish the deepest holes you can find, avoiding shorelines and shallow water. Remember that fish feed more delicately in cold water and the slightest motion of your bobber is normal when a fish takes the bait. Using this method, anglers have made consistent outstanding catches of large bluegills and redear sunfish and once the fish are located, you can enjoy the same fast-action as found in winter ice fishing. Farm ponds are particularly suitable for this type of fishing as the bluegills will normally be found tightly packed in the deepest portion of the pond.

ODNR Awarded Judgement

A Miami County Common Pleas Court jury awarded the Division of Wildlife of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) an $11,000 judgment against the City of Piqua for wild animals killed by pollution. The city was found guilty on three of four counts of permitting sewage and other pollutants to enter the Great Miami River from its sewage treatment plant in 1970, 1971 and 1974. "This case is significant in that our entire pollution investigation procedure was tested in an eight-day jury trial," said Dale Haney, Chief of the Division of Wildlife. "Obviously the jury was convinced our procedure is correct and that the evidence was factual." Haney commended John Richey, the assistant attorney general assigned to the Division of Wildlife, for his efforts in prosecuting the case. "The money awarded by the jury will be used for fish research and management purposes and for the stocking of fish in Ohio's lakes and streams," Haney added.

Windom, Groves Top MAC Duo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bobby Windom has come back the full cycle from an off-season injury that threatened his college football career. Knee surgery was required on the Eastern Michigan running back. "There is no loss of mobility and I'm as quick now (4.4 seconds for 40 yards) as I was before the operation," said the 175-pound freshman from Detroit, the Mid-American Conference Offensive Player of the Week. Windom piled up 133 yards and one touchdown rushing and caught four passes for 42 yards in the Hurons' first MAC victory ever, a 30-27 decision over Central Michigan. Ohio University defensive end Steve Groves, a sophomore from Canal Winchester, Ohio, was the MAC's No. 1 defensive performer for blocks of two punts and a placement try and batting down a bid for a two-point pass conversion in a 31-26 triumph at Bowling Green. Windom said of his comeback, "A lot of it is psychology. The knee is ready before the mind is, but I don't think about it." Groves still has thoughts of his school going to a bowl even if it doesn't win the conference. The Bobcats have only a slight chance of catching leading Ball State for the title. "We could still go 8-3 for the season," said Groves, "and that coupled with a victory over Cincinnati might give us a chance for a bowl bid."

Boosters To Meet In Circleville

Circleville Athletic Booster Club will meet 8 p.m. tonight in the high school cafeteria. Head football coach and athletic director Larry Cook will show films of the Washington C.H. game and discuss the upcoming season finale with Hillsboro. Miss Joy O'Brien, girls volleyball coach, will review her volleyball team which won the Sectional tournament and are now in District play. Plans will also be discussed for the Junior High Fall Sports Banquet to be held 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and the Senior High Fall Sports Banquet set for 6:30 p.m. Nov. 22. Final plans will also be made for the turkey shoot. Refreshments will be served and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Westfall To Hold Fall Sports Fete

Westfall will hold its Fall Sports Banquet 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school. The girls volleyball team, boys cross country, football team and cheerleaders will all be honored at the affair. It will be a carry in dinner and everyone is asked to provide their own tableware. Pee-Wee Title Tilt Set For Saturday Super Bowl No. 1 will be played 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Circleville High School Stadium to determine the champions of the Pee-Wee Football League. The battle will pit Jim's Super Duper, Black Division winners, against Hill's Implement, Blue Division winners.

Tribe Goes After Top Free Agents

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ted Bonda, president of the Cleveland Indians, says the Indians are "very much in the ballpark" in their efforts to sign a pair of the high-priced baseball free agents drafted last week. Bonda said he spent Monday with lawyer-agent Jerry Kapstein, who represents six of the players the Indians are trying to sign and four other free agents. The Indians appear particularly interested in Baltimore's 20-game-winner Wayne Garland, Oakland's power-hitting first baseman Don Baylor, Cincinnati pitcher Don Gullett and New York Yankees pitcher Doyle Alexander, among Kapstein's clients. The other two Kapstein-represented players on Cleveland's list are Oakland catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace and Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris. The Indians would be allowed to sign any two of the 10 free agents they drafted last week. "We have a very good shot at getting a couple of the guys we want," Bonda said. "It's too early to be sure, but I'm optimistic about our chances after meeting with Kapstein."

"He said we gave him good, bonafide offers and we'll talk again Friday on the telephone to set a date to meet here or in Providence (R.I.) next week," Bonda added. "At that time, Kapstein will let me know how we stand economically, in relation to the offers he has received from other clubs. "My guess right now is that we're in good shape. We have no problems competing with any other club, and I mean that," he said. Bonda said only Gene Tenace indicated less than 100 per cent interest in playing here, "but that doesn't mean he won't consider our offer and sign with us if it's good enough. "Kapstein seems to be a reasonable guy, and I'm sure he realizes he has an obligation to baseball," Bonda noted. "Everything considered, I'm encouraged, very encouraged." The Indians also drafted the rights to Oakland third baseman Sal Bando, San Francisco outfielder Gary Matthews, Chicago Cubs pitcher Steve Stone and California outfielder-third baseman Paul Dade. Bonda said bids were being readied to deliver to the agents representing those players.

Terry Brown Glad At Cleveland Chance

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Terry Brown knows what it's like to be on a winner, and he's hoping to become part of the same kind of feeling with the Cleveland Browns. The veteran strong safety came to the Browns just before the current season began. After backing up Neal Craig and learning the Cleveland system during the first eight games, Brown became a starter Sunday as Cleveland beat Houston 21-7. The 6-foot-2, 205-pounder started 12 games for the Minnesota Vikings last season, but suddenly found himself expendable. "I knew (Coach) Bud Grant pretty well and I thought I knew what was going on at Minnesota, but nothing was said to me and I felt they had taken me out of the picture for apparently no reason. "When Cleveland called me, the way they talked about how they wanted me, I felt pretty good," Brown added. "I had some friends here, so it wasn't too difficult." Brown was drafted out of Oklahoma State University in the third round in 1969 by the St. Louis Cardinals. He went to the Vikings on waivers in 1972, taking part in two Super Bowl games with Minnesota. "The big difference between the Vikings and the Browns is experience," Brown said. "A lot of the players on the Vikings are older guys.

They've been winning for a long time and they form habits that keep them winning. "But there's a lot of talent here," he added. "I feel like we've got a good future. "I had a good year last year," Brown said. "It was tough not playing after I got here; it kind of messes with your mind a little bit. But it really felt good to start Sunday and I've been playing the second half the past few weeks. "Basically, things are the same here (as at Minnesota)," he noted. "We play a little more man-to-man pass coverage here, but I like that." Brown, who had two interceptions each of the last two seasons, agrees with some of his teammates that the Browns have a good shot at the post-season playoffs. "We've got to eliminate the mistakes and be more consistent, but we're on that road now," Brown explained. "It's gonna go right down to the wire and that's the way I like it. "At Minnesota, it seemed we were always wrapping it up early, and that makes it hard to keep sharp," he added. "I like it this way, because you work hard for what you get each week." Brown is expected to start, alongside free safety Thom Darden and cornerbacks Ron Bolton and Clarence Scott, Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

deciding factor in the final outcome of the Mid State League standings this Friday night. They will be tangling with a bunch of tough cats when Pickerington's Tigers roar into the Braves' Stadium for an 8 p.m. kickoff.

"Picktown" holds a 9-0 slate for the 1976 campaign, and nothing would give the Braves more pleasure than beating the Tigers. To do that though, Coach Bill Frost said that his charges will have to stay low and try to close holes on defense. The Braves will be quicker than their opponents. The Tigers' line tips the scales at a 200 pound-plus average, while Frost stated that not a single Logan Elm griddle rivals that weight. But the Braves will be out to prove the old adage of "the bigger they are . . ." and don't be surprised if you see a lot of tall timber falling in Logan Elm's stadium Friday night.

Lining up on offense for the Braves will be Rock Huggins, Bruce Hannigan, and Mark Martin at the ends, with Rick McCain and Bill Leist at the tackles. The guards will be Lynn Strehle, Gary Weaver, and Willard Faulk, and the center will be Terry Wadlington.

Tony Crist gets the nod at quarterback, Jerry Scanlan will move from the fullback post, Tim Justus will roll out of left halfback, and Oscar Allen or Dave Calton will be the right halfback.

On defense it will be Huggins and

Allen at the ends, with Weaver and McCain at the tackles. Cliff Hoover and Larry Smith will be the guards, and roaming at the linebackers will be Scanlan and Jim McGuire. The corners will be Tim Davis and Brian Hannigan, and the safety will be John Scanlan or Calton.

If Pickerington would lose Friday and Bloom-Carroll would win over the Amanda-Clearcreek Aces, the MSL crown will be shared by Pickerington and Bloom-Carroll. However, if Pickerington and Bloom-Carroll both lose, Pickerington would still win the MSL title outright, and Bloom-Carroll would share the second spot with Amanda-Clearcreek.

We would like to send our thanks to the high school bands who worked just as hard as the athletic teams this season, and received little attention. These people really put on some productions and more than once we noticed that people were staying in their seats instead of running to the concession stands at halftime.

So it all ends Friday, and the saying that "time flies" really applies to the 1976 high school football season. After Friday's games, they'll padlock the stadiums and let them sit alone through the winter to reflect on what they've seen. We've thought about what we've seen too. We have seen some great bands, and we have seen a bunch of young people playing their hearts out Friday after Friday. They haven't always come out ahead with the score, but they've always been winners in our book. The players and coaches have always had the door wide open for us and helped us in any way possible.

Our old buddy "Willie the Dillie" has always said that people in this area run a first class organization with first class people, and we can't agree more. The pleasure has been ours. We'll see you at the game Friday night.

Windom, Groves Top MAC Duo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bobby Windom has come back the full cycle from an off-season injury that threatened his college football career. Knee surgery was required on the Eastern Michigan running back.

"There is no loss of mobility and I'm as quick now (4.4 seconds for 40 yards) as I was before the operation," said the 175-pound freshman from Detroit, the Mid-American Conference Offensive Player of the Week.

Windom piled up 133 yards and one touchdown rushing and caught four passes for 42 yards in the Hurons' first MAC victory ever, a 30-27 decision over Central Michigan.

Ohio University defensive end Steve Groves, a sophomore from Canal Winchester, Ohio, was the MAC's No. 1 defensive performer for blocks of two punts and a placement try and batting down a bid for a two-point pass conversion in a 31-26 triumph at Bowling Green.

Windom said of his comeback, "A lot of it is psychology. The knee is ready before the mind is, but I don't think about it."

Groves still has thoughts of his school going to a bowl even if it doesn't win the conference. The Bobcats have only a slight chance of catching leading Ball State for the title.

"We could still go 8-3 for the season," said Groves, "and that coupled with a victory over Cincinnati might give us a chance for a bowl bid."

Boosters To Meet In Circleville

Circleville Athletic Booster Club will meet 8 p.m. tonight in the high school cafeteria.

Head football coach and athletic director Larry Cook will show films of the Washington C.H. game and discuss the upcoming season finale with Hillsboro.

Miss Joy O'Brien, girls volleyball coach, will review her volleyball team which won the Sectional tournament and are now in District play.

Plans will also be discussed for the Junior High Fall Sports Banquet to be held 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and the Senior High Fall Sports Banquet set for 6:30 p.m. Nov. 22. Final plans will also be made for the turkey shoot.

Refreshments will be served and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Westfall To Hold Fall Sports Fete

Westfall will hold its Fall Sports Banquet 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school.

The girls volleyball team, boys cross country, football team and cheerleaders will all be honored at the affair.

It will be a carry in dinner and everyone is asked to provide their own tableware.

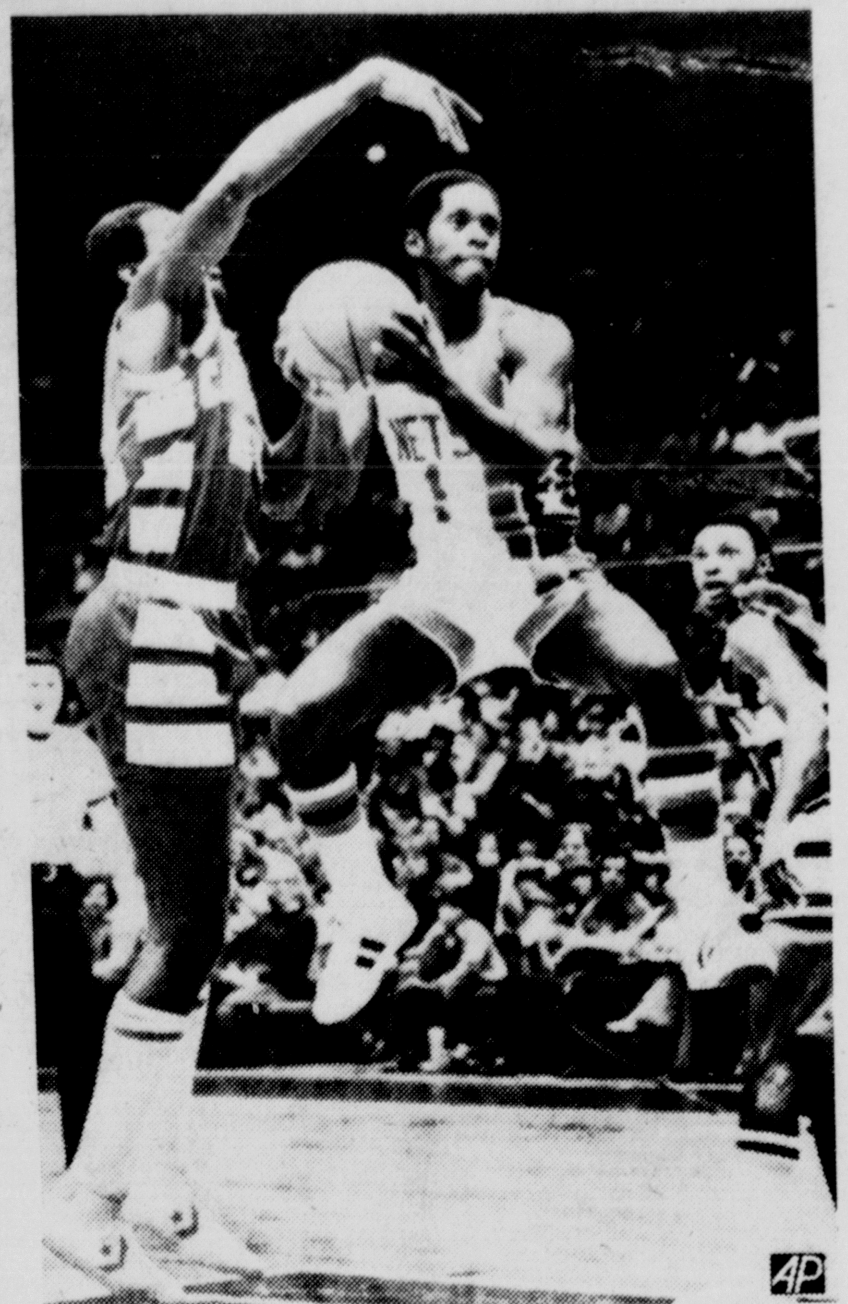

Pee-Wee Title Tilt Set For Saturday

Super Bowl No. 1 will be played 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Circleville High School Stadium to determine the champions of the Pee-Wee Football League.

The battle will pit Jim's Super Duper, Black Division winners, against Hill's Implement, Blue Division winners.

'TINY' FLIES — New York Nets' Nate "Tiny" Archibald jumps past Cleveland Cavaliers' Jim Chones, left, as he scores basket in NBA game in Uniondale, N.Y.

Tribe Goes After Top Free Agents

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ted Bonda, president of the Cleveland Indians, says the Indians are "very much in the ballpark" in their efforts to sign a pair of the high-priced baseball free agents drafted last week.

Bonda said he spent Monday with lawyer-agent Jerry Kapstein, who represents six of the players the Indians are trying to sign and four other free agents.

The Indians appear particularly interested in Baltimore's 20-game winner Wayne Garland, Oakland's power-hitting first baseman Don Baylor, Cincinnati pitcher Don Gullett and New York Yankees pitcher Doyle Alexander, among Kapstein's clients.

The other two Kapstein-represented players on Cleveland's list are Oakland catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace and Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris.

The Indians would be allowed to sign any two of the 10 free agents they drafted last week.

"We have a very good shot at getting a couple of the guys we want," Bonda said. "It's too early to be sure, but I'm optimistic about our chances after meeting with Kapstein."

"He said we gave him good, bonafide offers and we'll talk again Friday on the telephone to set a date to meet here or in Providence (R.I.) next week," Bonda added. "At that time, Kapstein will let me know how we stand economically, in relation to the offers he has received from other clubs."

"My guess right now is that we're in good shape. We have no problems competing with any other club, and I mean that," he said.

Bonda said only Gene Tenace indicated less than 100 per cent interest in playing here, "but that doesn't mean he won't consider our offer and sign with us if it's good enough."

"Kapstein seems to be a reasonable guy, and I'm sure he realizes he has an obligation to baseball," Bonda noted. "Everything considered, I'm encouraged, very encouraged."

The Indians also drafted the rights to Oakland third baseman Sal Bando, San Francisco outfielder Gary Matthews, Chicago Cubs pitcher Steve Stone and California outfielder-third baseman Paul Dade. Bonda said bids were being readied to deliver to the agents representing those players.

Terry Brown Glad At Cleveland Chance

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Terry Brown knows what it's like to be on a winner, and he's hoping to become part of the same kind of feeling with the Cleveland Browns.

The veteran strong safety came to the Browns just before the current season began. After backing up Neal Craig and learning the Cleveland system during the first eight games, Brown became a starter Sunday as Cleveland beat Houston 21-7.

The 6-foot-2, 205-pounder started 12 games for the Minnesota Vikings last season, but suddenly found himself expendable.

"I knew (Coach) Bud Grant pretty well and I thought I knew what was going on at Minnesota, but nothing was said to me and I felt they had taken me out of the picture for apparently no reason."

"When Cleveland called me, the way they talked about how they wanted me, I felt pretty good," Brown added. "I had some friends here, so it wasn't too difficult."

Brown was drafted out of Oklahoma State University in the third round in 1969 by the St. Louis Cardinals. He went to the Vikings on waivers in 1972, taking part in two Super Bowl games with Minnesota.

"The big difference between the Vikings and the Browns is experience," Brown said. "A lot of the players on the Vikings are older guys."

They've been winning for a long time and they form habits that keep them winning.

"But there's a lot of talent here," he added. "I feel like we've got a good future."

"I had a good year last year," Brown said. "It was tough not playing after I got here; it kind of messes with your mind a little bit. But it really felt good to start Sunday and I've been playing the second half the past few weeks."

"Basically, things are the same here (as at Minnesota)," he noted. "We play a little more man-to-man pass coverage here, but I like that."

Brown, who had two interceptions each of the last two seasons, agrees with some of his teammates that the Browns have a good shot at the post-season playoffs.

"We've got to eliminate the mistakes and be more consistent, but we're on that road now," Brown explained. "It's gonna go right down to the wire and that's the way I like it."

"At Minnesota, it seemed we were always wrapping it up early, and that makes it hard to keep sharp," he added. "I like it this way, because you work hard for what you get each week."

Brown is expected to start, alongside free safety Thom Darden and cornerbacks Ron Bolton and Clarence Scott, Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals players aren't talking about a Super Bowl for real yet but were swelling a little over controlling their own fate for the first time in the American Conference Central Division

Year Big Difference For Lakewood Team

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — What a difference a year makes for Lakewood St. Edward, The Associated Press' 1975 Class AAA poll champion that finished second in the postseason playoffs.

Under Mike Currence a year ago, St. Edward averaged more than 30 points in rolling to an undefeated season. Assistant Coach Dan Flaherty was the coordinator of that splendid attack.

Now, in a twist of irony, Flaherty runs the whole show and the Eagles are 8-1 because of defense. St. Edward has yielded just 9.7 points per game and posted five shutouts.

Around Ohio: Two Toledo powers face a dilemma. St. John's and Central Catholic are both prime candidates to earn state semifinal berths by leading their regionals. And both have qualified for the city playoff. The problem? The state semifinals and the city title game are the same weekend.

Speaking of the playoffs, three games in the Fostoria area Saturday involve four semifinal possibilities, Fostoria St. Wendelin, Tiffin Calvert, Sandusky St. Mary's and Fremont St. Joseph. St. Wendelin faces Norwalk St. Paul, Calvert plays at St. Mary's and St. Joseph awaits Eastwood.

Dayton Meadowdale and Cincinnati Reading, two unbeaten, sport a pair of 1,000-yard rushing backs. Tim Campbell has 1,150 and Jeff Crane 1,100 for Meadowdale. Reading's aces are Tim Fouchey (1,593) and Glenn Bullock (1,042).

Canton McKinley, which faces Massillon in their annual showdown Saturday, faces its poorest season in 23 years. The Bulldogs are 4-5-0. You have to go back to Wade Watts' 1953 squad, with a 3-6-1 effort, to find a poorer McKinley record.

Napoleon's Chuck Buckenmeyer needs one more victory to reach 200 career coaching triumphs. In 28 years at Napoleon, Buckenmeyer is 199-45.

Class AA Port Clinton's 8-1 accomplishment includes six victories in seven games against AAA opposition, pitching six shutouts at home. Albany Alexander has been tough on defense, too, yielding just 77 points in its last 19 games.

Individual glitter: Kevin Cannon, New Lexington, six touchdowns, 278 yards against Morgan, 120 points this fall; Allan Young, Fairport Harbor Harding, 140 points, best in Northeastern Ohio; Tim Loeser, Avon Lake, 152 yards Friday, 1,320 for the season and three school records.

Piketon Junior High School, coached by Keith Willson, has finished its fifth straight unbeaten season. The team has 37 straight victories and last lost in 1971 to Portsmouth West.

record, two full games ahead of the Super Bowl Champion Pittsburgh Steelers, 5-4, traditional leaders of the division in recent years.

"We've never had this before where we can seal our own fate."

New Coach Bill Johnson did not sit back to ponder the victory over the Rams.

"This is just another win," said Johnson. "Now we have to concentrate on Houston," a game Cincinnati is supposed to win.

He was perturbed about the interruption in the normal practice schedule because the Rams game was played on Monday night.

"It disrupts the whole program," he said, noting the practice week is 1½ days shorter this week.

Cincinnati must defeat the teams it is expected to beat the remainder of the season—Houston, Kansas City and the New York Jets, and beat either Pittsburgh or Oakland to assure a division championship.

Pittsburgh finishes against Miami, Houston, Cincinnati, Tampa Bay and Houston again.

The Steelers beat the Bengals in the first game and ended a four-game losing streak.

"Maybe we were too tight on offense," said veteran center Bob Johnson, talking about the Rams 6-0 shutout of Cincinnati in the first half. The Bengals came back in the third quarter with 20 points to win the game.

"The Rams certainly are more used to playing on Monday nights than we are."

"But it was just a matter of time for a team that wants it as bad as we do."

Ice Fishing Without Ice

Local panfishermen awaiting the ice fishing season can try the following method for harvesting large bluegills during the late fall months. Attach two tiny ice fishing jigs (size 10 - 12 hooks) about a foot and a half apart on the end of your line. Impale a waxworm onto each jig and fish the jigs as close to the bottom as possible using the smallest bobber that will float. Fish the deepest holes you can find, avoiding shorelines and shallow water.

Remember that fish feed more delicately in cold water and the slightest motion of your bobber is normal when a fish takes the bait. Using this method, anglers have made consistent outstanding catches of large bluegills and redear sunfish and once the fish are located, you can enjoy the same fast-action as found in winter ice fishing.

Farm ponds are particularly suitable for this type of fishing as the bluegills will normally be found tightly packed in the deepest portion of the pond.

ODNR Awarded Judgement

A Miami County Common Pleas Court jury awarded the Division of Wildlife of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) an $11,000 judgment against the City of Piqua for wild animals killed by pollution.

The city was found guilty on three of four counts of permitting sewage and other pollutants to enter the Great Miami River from its sewage treatment plant in 1970, 1971 and 1974.

"This case is significant in that our entire pollution investigation procedure was tested in an eight-day jury trial," said Dale Haney, Chief of the Division of Wildlife. "Obviously the jury was convinced our procedure is correct and that the evidence was factual."

Haney commended John Richey, the assistant attorney general assigned to the Division of Wildlife, for his efforts in prosecuting the case.

"The money awarded by the jury will be used for fish research and management purposes and for the stocking of fish in Ohio's lakes and streams," Haney added.

In Memoriam

In Memory of Gladys Temple upon her 63rd Birthday. There's an open gate at the end of the road, and there, in a light we cannot see, our Father claims His own. Beyond the gate our loved one found happiness and rest, and there is comfort in the thought that a Loving God knows best. Sadly missed by:

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find a what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You may now expect a "different" approach from others; also a real surprise. Work consistently on endeavors which net big dividends. Your prestige increases.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Wait for cues before launching any project. An activity-happy person such as yourself could get into difficult situations if not on guard.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Avoid needless anxiety and tension. You can deal effectively with difficult assignments by being your inherently ingenious and far-seeing self.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Make your schedule a flexible one. There are possibilities of changes and variations in certain situations — all promising to be beneficial.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Some complications indicated in job matters. A Beware of instability, emotionalism. Consult with others as to the best way to get on the productive road.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Break your program down to definite essentials and eliminate the unimportant. Do not engage in unfamiliar ventures except where "dry runs" seem feasible.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Be realistic now and pursue only worthwhile goals. Take temporary delays in stride. Opportunity offered through clever use of your creative ability.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Ingenuity and a fresh approach to certain situations could brighten this day considerably. Soft-pedal complaints and curb your innate aggressiveness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Better advantages than you may anticipate. An especially good period for revitalizing projects which you may have considered dropping.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't be thrown off guard by fancy-sounding, but possibly misleading, propositions. Study the overall picture. Where there's REAL value, however, don't hesitate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Exercise your keen mental faculties. Some indicated opportunities may be missed if you are too hasty or, worse, indifferent.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You may run into some opposition but you need not let it disturb your equilibrium or your sense of humor. You usually enjoy outwitting opposing forces.

YOU BORN TODAY love adventure, interesting people, life in general. You are intensely ambitious and have a brilliant intellect. HUBERT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If Peter Marshall hadn't had a chance encounter with a radio soap-opera actor on a dusty road in wartime Italy, someone else might be host of the long-running game show "Hollywood Squares."

And if it hadn't been for Marshall might not be em-barking on a new television venture, a syndicated variety show.

As a 19-year-old forward artillery observer in Italy toward the end of World War II, Marshall recalled in an interview, he was about to be sent to the Pacific, where the fighting was heavier.

He was walking along a road in Naples, con-templating the prospects of warfare in the Pacific, when he heard someone call his name. It was a soapopera star Marshall had met while working as a radio station page.

After learning about the perilous transfer, the actor got him a job as a military disc jockey and Marshall was in show business for keeps.

In the years after the war, Marshall teamed up with the late Tommy Noonan in a comedy act that broke up in 1961. He performed in stage productions in New York and London, did nightclub acts and eventually became host of "Hollywood Squares," now in its 11th year.

The common demoninator in all of this is that Marshall, like other entertainers, has counted on people liking him and what he does. And that element, he says, will decide whether the variety show succeeds.

"If you like the host, the show will work. If you don't, it won't work," Marshall said at the outset of a tour promoting his show.

Some critics have not liked what they've seen, and Marshall has noted their displeasure. He said he expected that would happen because of his image as a game show host, which he said was distasteful to some — but not all — reviewers.

"I thought, boy, they're going to grab me," said the 50-year-old entertainer, "and boy, did they get me."

The ultimate judgment, of course, rests with the people who tune in the 72 television stations that are carrying the series of 13 90-minute shows this fall.

Whatever the outcome, Marshall vows he won't leave "Hollywood Squares."

Marshall — limited on "Hollywood Squares" to the role of straight man to a talking tic-tac-toe grid — gets a chance to do a bit of everything on his new variety show.

He sings, dances and joins in comedy sketches with his guests, most of whom he says are personal friends because "at $371 (a show), they're the only ones you can get."

Gauguin

NEW YORK (AP) — Finding it ironic that Tahiti's Gauguin Museum was Gauguin-less, magazine owner Malcolm Forbes recently cured the problem when he presented, on long-term loan, the Paul Gauguin painting Les Enfants dans la Rue (The Children in the Street) to the museum.

The Forbes Magazine Gauguin, insured for $150,000 depicts the wife and children the artist abandoned in France to begin his colorful life in Tahiti where his paintings of the island's people made him famous.

Long Pleads Guilty In Glatt Death

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The widow of Dr. Charles Glatt, who was slain while planning Dayton's school desegregation, says she was shocked and displeased when Neal Bradley Long pleaded guilty to a federal murder charge in the case Tuesday.

"I hate to think of my family and his family going through the rest of their lives not knowing if he was competent," Mrs. Johnena Glatt said. "I think somebody should have to prove it. I would like seeing the system work."

In an emotional court appearance Tuesday, Long said he killed Glatt because he was upset and angry over "the busing of school kids, and integration."

Bursting into tears twice, Long pleaded guilty to murder of a federal official and to a civil rights violation in connection with the shooting. He faces a possible life sentence. Sentencing was postponed pending pre-sentencing investigation.

"I believe I am guilty, and I plead guilty," Long told U.S. District Court Judge Robert DiMascio shortly before his trial was to begin on the charges.

The plea Tuesday came as a surprise. Long's attorneys had said he would plead innocent by reason of insanity.

Glatt, an Ohio State University professor assigned by the federal court to draw up Dayton's desegregation plan, was shot in his office here in September 1975. Long was arrested in the hallway outside Glatt's office.

Judge DiMascio questioned Long for an hour before accepting the plea. Long told him of sitting outside his ex-wife's home after driving his child home from school.

He had a fifth of brandy in the car, Long said, and a revolver was under the front seat. He took two drinks from the brandy, "then I guess I got kind of angry, kind of mad, and I decided I'd go down and try to find Dr. Glatt."

Long broke down while telling his story, but regained his composure. "I'm sorry, your honor," he said, wiping his eyes.

"Do you often cry when you get angry and when you think about this case?" the judge asked. "Yes," Long replied.

He said he went to the Dayton School Board office and was told he could find Glatt in the city's old federal building. "I had the gun with me then," he noted.

He said he found Glatt's office and tried twice to get inside. The office was locked, he said, "so I asked the guard to let me in, and he did."

"I walked in and asked him if he was Dr. Glatt, and he said he was. Then I took the pistol out of my pocket and shot him four times."

Long said when he first left his ex-wife's house, he did not intend to kill Glatt, "maybe just go into his office and jump on him about busing."

But the closer he got, he said, the more determined he became to kill Glatt. He said he thought to himself as he approached Glatt's office, "God, if I find him, I'll kill him."

Long said he never thought of the possibility he would be arrested. "Then I walked out into the hall, and there were six guards standing there with their guns pulled. I decided then that it was about the end of the road."
